

HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS MAY DIE IN WORLD FAMINE

DEADLINE ONLY FEW YEARS AWAY

Warning: 'The Most Colossal Catastrophe in History'

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

CHICAGO (AP) — A world famine striking "hundreds of millions or even billions of human beings" is near, a scientist-sociologist warned today.

"It will be the most colossal catastrophe in history," declared Dr. Raymond Ewell, vice-president for research, State University of New York at Buffalo.

Such a famine in Asia, Africa and South America by the 1970s and later seems almost inevitable as expanding population outstrips food production, he told the American Chemical Society.

Dr. Ewell said the only immediate step open to avert it is for the United States and Europe to make outright gifts of millions of tons of fertilizers to increase local food yields.

The deadline even for succeeding this way is only a few years away, he said.

Birth control is the ultimate answer, Dr. Ewell said, but its effects on the food-population problem will be slow. Yet unless birth control is applied also, the famine would still come regardless of boosts in food production.

"Historians of the future may remark on whether it was more important to have worked towards putting a man on the moon during the 1960s, or to have worked towards averting the world famine of the 1970s," he said.

By present trends, "it seems likely that the famine will reach serious proportions in India, Pakistan and China in the early 1970s, followed by Indonesia, Iran, Turkey, Egypt and several other countries within a few years, and then followed by most of the other countries of Asia, Africa and Latin America by 1980," Dr. Ewell predicted.

Population in these areas will increase by about 1,000,000 persons in 20 years, but food output has not been increasing, he said.

Stable governments could not exist under such famines, he said. People would be too weak to work, be affected mentally, yet modern medicine would keep many starving people from dying of diseases as happened among past famines involving "only" about 10,000,000 people.

"There is still time for a crash program that might avert the situation—by supplying fertilizers" that could boost yields of rice, wheat, corn and other crops by 50 to 100 per cent more, he said.

"The rich, industrialized nations will have to give either fertilizer (such as nitrogen and phosphorus) or fertilizer production plants to the poor countries for the simple reason that they don't have any money."

Plants to produce the millions of tons of needed fertilizer would cost about $5,000,000—"about a tenth the cost of putting a man on the moon," Dr. Ewell said.

He suggested an international agency might be formed to direct the supply of fertilizer, and experts to teach its use. Introducing better varieties of seeds, more irrigation, more pesticides are also needed, but their effect is slower.

Dr. Ewell said birth rates of about two or nearly three per cent of population per year in those countries must be reduced to about one per cent if ultimate disaster is to be avoided.

INDIA ASKS U.S., U.K. TO DIVERT GRAIN SHIPS

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — India is urgently appealing to the United States and Britain for grain to ease a food shortage following a delay in foreign imports and damage to home crops, it was reported today.

An Indian food ministry spokesman said the government had made direct appeals to London and Washington for the diversion to Indian ports of ships carrying Australian wheat to Britain and United States wheat to Pakistan.

'Mike Must Back Down' Tory Stand

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA — Negotiations to reach a compromise solution to the flag filibuster will get nowhere with the Progressive Conservatives until Prime Minister Pearson backs down and withdraws the flag or sends it to a committee with no time limit.

Conservative house leader Gordon Churchill made this clear in an interview today after the various house leaders held a meeting Monday. Four of the five party house leaders met for 40 minutes to try and work out some compromise. Social Credit was not represented.

Stanley Knowles, New Democratic house leader, said today it was still his view that if such meetings were continued that the house leaders might reach a compromise. However he stressed that in a compromise both sides had to "give a little."

He added, "In the bargaining sessions we have had so far there appears to be no willingness on the part of the Progressive Conservatives to budge an inch. This is unlike most bargaining sessions where each side is prepared to give a bit."

Mr. Churchill said that the Conservatives are convinced that the "government has miscalculated badly in this flag question. It has miscalculated the feelings of the people across the country and it has miscalculated in its handling of this matter in Parliament."

"SOFTENING UP"

The Tory house leader said that in continuing to debate the flag in the house the official opposition was "softening up the Liberals."

Mr. Churchill said, "We will get nowhere so long as the present government insists that the maple leaf flag be adopted. The reports we are getting each week now indicate that the three-maple leaf flag is not nearly as acceptable to the people of Canada as it appeared to be three months ago."

Even many of those people who are not insistent on retaining the Red Ensign are not favourable to the adoption of the three maple leaf flag."

The Conservative house leader said the way out of the impasse for the government was to withdraw the maple leaf flag or send the flag question to a committee of parliament, but he insisted there must be no time limit on the meetings of that committee to try and arrive at an acceptable flag design.

As aide said Robichaud's proposal was a "feeler" thrown out upon the premise that the meeting 100 years ago was designed to consider a maritime union only and that the delegates "were not resolute in their purpose."

PIECEMEAL

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland added that any union would probably have to take place upon a piecemeal basis with the islands of Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island uniting first, then acquiring Cape Breton, and then joining with the mainland of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

If political seniority were to govern the premiership of an united province, he suggested, Premier Walter Shaw would preside first, then Smallwood, then Stanfield, and "perhaps in 30 or 40 years" Premier Robichaud.

No. 1 Goal For Canada

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson today called on Canadians for "political realism, a passion for justice and a gift for compromise."

He said these qualities will be needed if Canada's people are going to remove the stains imposed by constitutional, racial and regional tensions.

Mr. Pearson spoke at a ceremonial federal-provincial conference marking the 100th anniversary of the 1864 Charlottetown meeting that led to Confederation three years later.

National unity must be the No. 1 goal, the prime minister said. It must take precedence over all other goals—economic, social or cultural.

"This does not mean and cannot mean uniformity. It does mean Canadian identity, with the symbols and even more the spirit and the pride to foster such identity."

"It does not mean subordination in any way of provincial rights, nor the alienation of provincial authority. It does mean a government at the centre strong enough to serve Canada as a whole."

Mr. Pearson said Canada's present problems are seized upon by the cynics and the faint-hearted to belittle the nation's achievements. Canadians should counteract such defeatism.

"We should spend more time rejoicing in our achievements; less in moaning about our difficulties."

Social unrest, economic pressures and federal-provincial differences have tested every generation of Canadians. No generation had failed to meet the test; nor would the Canadians of today.

Even on the anniversary of the meeting that shaped Canada's birth, he said, her leaders and people should not overdwelling on the past, or even on the present. "We plan for the future, and it is the future on which we have to agree."

"We cannot turn back the clock. We cannot by our wish or our command restore to our problems the simple shapes, the neat black and white alternatives of simpler times."

Islanders Away To Flying Start

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Islanders just how Charlottetown earned its title as "the cradle of Confederation."

Among the spectators were Prime Minister Pearson and the 10 provincial premiers.

Mr. Pearson and the premiers will try Wednesday to arrive at an acceptable formula that will allow the constitution to be amended in Ottawa without reference to Westminster. There were indications the 11 leaders would have little difficulty achieving their goal.

The chances of success are "100 per cent," said Premier Bennett of British Columbia.

Premier Manning of Alberta was "hopeful."

Unlike other provinces, which will have their birthday fairs in 1967, this is the centenary of the island's historic role in the making of Canada—the day in 1864 the fathers of Confederation came ashore to begin moulding the provinces into a nation.

Year's A-Power For Spaceship

GENEVA (AP)—The United States is developing a compact atomic reactor designed to power a space ship for more than a year and has scheduled the first space flight of a reactor power plant next year, it was reported here today.

The third International Conference on the Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy also was told nuclear explosives will soon be used for civil engineering projects such as earth moving and the recovery of minerals and petroleum which would otherwise not be economically recoverable.

Dr. Robert H. Pidd, of the General Dynamics Corp., San Diego, Calif., said that in one test of a compact reactor a lifetime of almost one year was achieved.

He added that there seems to be no doubt that this can be Blame for a recent rise in flyash fallout was centred on McCarter's Shingle Mills today and City Hall officials indicated a prosecution may be launched.

Smoke committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgerton this morning told public works committee that "a certain firm is breaking the (smoke control) bylaw and is not cooperating with the city's inspector."

He said that the city engineer's department is reviewing the situation and may lay a charge against the firm if the situation is not improved quickly.

Other aldermen indicated they were angered with the situation and Mayor R. B. Wilson said:

"I see no reason why the name of the firm should not be made public. It's McCarter's isn't it?"

They reported major advances have been made in reducing the amount of radioactivity released from the nuclear explosions.

Colwood Rep Seeks Delay In Semi-Metro

A pause in joint services discussions might give suburban people affected a better appreciation of what semi-metro control means, Colwood representative William Reader said today.

He will ask for a delay in the government-sponsored discussion at the next meeting Wednesday.

Mr. Reader said he feels the people of Colwood, Langford and Metchosin should first have a chance to decide whether they want to merge into a single municipality on the basis of study already in progress.

He feels local government and joint services on a metropolitan basis have common factors that should be noted now.

REPORT DUE

A report on local government is expected to be made soon and meetings of residents are to be set for sometime this month. A joint meeting of all residents in the three areas was to follow, at which time an informal vote would decide whether a regional plebiscite will be taken.

If the formal vote is "yes," then a local council and reeve would be elected and it is these people, Mr. Reader feels, who should take part in joint services discussion.

Although he and the other area representatives were elected to the joint services group, Mr. Reader notes it was "a very light vote, reflecting the apathy toward joint services discussion."

"I would prefer they hold up a little, but I wouldn't pull out myself if the others didn't want to delay."

DEBATE DELAY

Metchosin representative Kenneth Rainey and Langford delegate Ralph Willing were doubtful about a delay and wanted time to think.

If there were a negative vote for merging into a municipality, Mr. Reader said, then a plebiscite could be held throughout the areas involved at the time of annual school board elections in November.

A straight ballot could be held deciding whether the people want joint services discussion continued.

"I don't want to convey the impression I'm opposed to joint services discussion because I feel some good can come out of it."

"My reason for stalling is that I feel the people haven't a good grasp of it and a delay might give them a better appreciation," he said.

Businessmen Propose Fly Ash Lobby

A Douglas Street service station operator today called for businessmen to lobby City Hall for elimination of the fly ash nuisance before it eliminates them.

"I think we businessmen should get together and demand some action. The situation really is terrible and it's getting worse," said Derek Stratford, who operates a service station at 2821 Douglas.

"Through no fault of ours, business is being hurt in this area (Gorge-Douglas-Burnside),"

GROWS WORSE

Mr. Stratford said the fly ash fallout had become considerably worse in recent weeks and customers were becoming irritated to see their cars covered with soot after only a few minutes.

"The fallout used to be a fine ash that wasn't immediately noticeable but the plants must have changed their burning methods because the stuff is coming in great big black flakes now."

Bitter complaints of the increasing "fly ash" nuisance from industrial smoke were made by Stewart and Hudson Ltd. to City Hall Monday.

E. P. Hudson, a director of the building supplies chain which operates an outlet on The Gorge, said "it can definitely be stated that the amount of fallout of fly ash has increased during the past few weeks."

FINANCIAL LOSS

During July, he said, the company suffered considerable financial loss when runoff from a burst city water main was plugged by fly ash soot.

The city drains would not carry off the water which spread onto our storage yard," Mr. Hudson wrote. "Because of scalded drains, the water backed into the basement of our warehouse to a depth of 12 inches."

He said all businesses are inspected by the city to ensure they comply with regulations. "Why are the offenders permitted to violate this (fly ash regulation) law?"

SEEKS LAW CHANGE AFTER SON KILLED

Drunk Driver Fight Life Work

Robert Malkin walked out of the Legislative Buildings Monday and said:

"I'll see this thing through to the end."

"If it takes me the rest of my life I'll see it to these laws are changed."

For Robert Malkin, the trip to Victoria was just another leg of a crusade which in the past six months has taken him 3,000 miles through the U.S. and Canada.

The purpose of his crusade — to fight the drunk driver.

QUIT HIS JOB

A Vancouver man, he quit his job as a lumberman recently to wage an all-out battle on existing drunk driving laws.

His fight began last November when his son Christopher, 22, and a friend at Stanford University were killed in a two-car smash.

Driver of the killer car, an unemployed, uninsured cemetery territory groundsman, received concurrent one-year sentences on two manslaughter charges.

A charge of drunk driving against him was dropped after he refused to submit to a urine test.

5,000 Signatures

In March, Mr. Malkin and his wife drove down to California to speak to citizens about existing laws.

Support for their cause was so great they returned in May and collected over 5,000 signatures to a petition for stiffer laws.

Mr. Malkin is fighting for:

- Stiffer penalties for drunk drivers.

- Compulsory blood tests for drivers who have been drinking.

- A definition in law of the word intoxication.

WANTS DETERRENT

A drinking man himself, he said: "I am not out to stop people drinking and driving."

"I just want the law to offer such a strong deterrent to offenders that they will think twice before having one too many."

Police chiefs, safety organizations and California's governor, Pat Brown, have all pledged their support to the cause.

Only this week another petition with 2,000 names on it, raised by a Californian family who lost their daughter to a drunk driver, arrived at Mr. Malkin's home.

PUBLIC CONCERN

He is offering the petitions as evidence of the public's concern about existing laws.

Supreme Court Hearing Thursday On Fraud Charge

In Victoria Law Courts Thursday at 10:30 a.m., Justice R. A. Wootton will be asked to quash charges of fraud against a Salt Spring Island man.

Robert Ainslie Foulis has been charged with fraud in connection with a scheme involving the buying and selling of thousands of dollars worth of liquor.

His lawyer, A. M. Manson of Vancouver, will ask Mr. Justice Wootton in Supreme Court to quash the charges. His earlier motions to have the charges quashed were denied in city magistrate's court by Magistrate William Ostler.

If Mr. Justice Wootton upholds Magistrate Ostler at Thursday's hearing, Foulis will appear in magistrate's court Sept. 11 to plead guilty or not guilty to the charges.

Arbiter Named

A Vancouver management engineer was named by the Tabor department Monday as chairman of a special arbitration board to set residual terms of a Port Alberni pulp mill office workers' dispute.

He is Norman O. Paquette, vice-president of Stevenson and Kellogg Ltd.

The board will make binding recommendations on matters not previously agreed upon by MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. and Office Employees' International Union, whose dispute touched off a costly strike last spring.

20 Million Deaths Lay Ahead

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

PARIS (UPI)—Twenty-five years ago today, Hitler's Stuka dive bombers swooped out of the gray skies over Poland to begin the five and one-half years of death and destruction that was the Second World War.

Before dawn that morning, Sept. 1, 1939, German Panzer divisions carrying out the first blitzkrieg in history, chewed their way across the Polish frontier.

An hour before noon, this correspondent watched from the gallery as Hitler brought an obedient Reichstag to its feet with his screaming, hysterical declaration of war against Poland.

SPOTTED REFUGEES

Commandos Hit Radar Station

PANAMA CITY (AP)—Nine anti-Castro commandos have destroyed a Russian-directed radar station on Cuba's southeastern coast, a Cuban exile leader said Monday night.

Manuel Artime announced that his raiders struck from two torpedo boats and that all got away safely.

He said he didn't know whether any Russians or Cuban soldiers were killed during the raid early Sunday morning.

According to Artime, the radar station was defended by a garrison of 150 Cuban soldiers and three Soviet officers. The station was selected, he said, because it was used to detect Cubans fleeing their country by boat, especially those coming from Oriente and Camaguey provinces.

Artime asserted that once the refugees were spotted, speedy Russian-built patrol boats were sent after them. He said the boats were usually commanded by a Russian and the refugees were always shot to death while crouching in their boats.

He said the radar station and a lighthouse were located on Cabo Cruz, at the western tip of the southern coast of Oriente province.

Food Stamp Plan Set For Needy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson signed into law Monday night a U.S.-wide food stamp plan to improve the diet of needy families.

The president called the new law "one of our most valuable weapons for the war on poverty. It will enable low-income families to increase their food expenditures, using their own dollars."

Promoted also by his predecessor, the late president Kennedy, the food stamp plan permits qualifying families to buy $10 worth of food stamps for $6 on the average.

Where instituted—it now is in operation in 43 counties and will be expanded greatly by the new law—the stamp plan replaces the old system of distributing surplus staple food to needy families.

The new program is expected to cost $25,000,000 the first year, $75,000,000 the second, $100,000,000 the fourth.

That night, the lights went out all over Europe. By the time they went on again on May 7, 1945, more than 20 million people were dead. Cities from Rotterdam to Salerno lay in rubble—including Hitler's Berlin. And the Soviet Union had extended its control and puppet governments more than 600 miles to the west.

Twenty-five years ago, Europe, had been poised on the brink of war for a week. In London, they were digging trenches in the parks, issuing gas masks, and evacuating children to the country.

In Paris, mobilization orders were bringing millions of young Frenchmen to their regiments. In Berlin, mobilization already had been completed, and Hitler's vast armies stood poised to strike against Poland.

No One Dared

But no one dared to believe that war could happen.

British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain had signed the Munich agreement demanding Czechoslovakia less than a year before. He had left his meeting with Hitler genuinely believing in "peace in our time."

Now, he made last, desperate attempts to dissuade Hitler from plunging the world into its second major war in 25 years. But Hitler, the little corporal in Germany's defeated First World War army, was bent on avenging that loss. Nothing would stop him.

For two days after he struck Poland, Britain and France kept up their efforts to get him to withdraw. Then, on Sept. 3, they declared war.

It was a hot, sunny Sunday. The Nazi-controlled radio interrupted its programs to announce Chamberlain's declaration of war.

'Don't Mean It'

Berliners continued their Sunday stroll on Unter Den Linden. "The British don't really mean it," they told me.

In the United States, many Americans believed that this was "just another European war."

But the attack on Poland set these events in motion: The invasion of Denmark and Norway, the Low Countries, and France; the fall of France, the Battle of Britain, the invasion of Yugoslavia, Greece, and Russia; Pearl Harbor, El Alamein, Midway, Desert Victory, the Italian landings, D-Day, the liberation of Europe, VE Day, VJ Day, the division of Europe—and the cold war.

PARK HOME FOR WHALE?

WEST VANCOUVER (CP)—The parks board here is weighing the possibility of installing Moby Dick in a sea pen at Whytecliff Park.

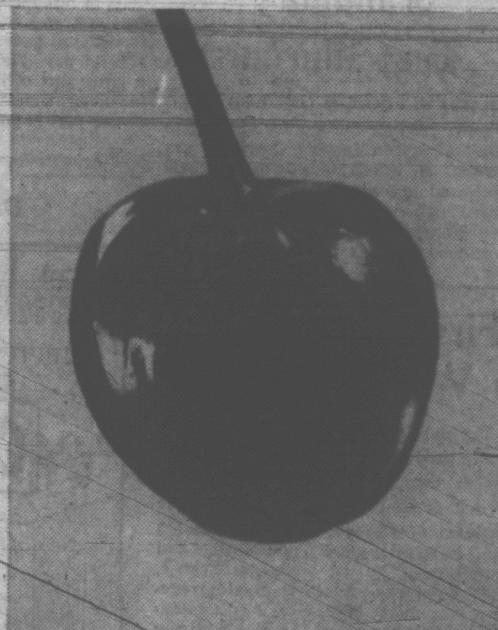

Joan Greenwood, municipal member of the board, says no early decision is expected. She says the board realizes the value of the killer whale as an exhibit, and as an asset to West Vancouver.

However, one objection is that it would alter the character of the park which is a favorite family picnic spot.

A Shorter Fuse

A MAJOR AMERICAN EFFORT to achieve agreement on Cyprus between Greece and Turkey has failed. Announcement that the meetings in Geneva, with former U.S. State Secretary Dean Acheson acting as mediator, had been discontinued, came on the same day that President Makarios of Cyprus revealed a new agreement with Egypt. President Nasser, he said, has promised all possible aid to Cyprus against "foreign aggression."

The situation in the Mediterranean is therefore no nearer solution, and the possibilities of catastrophe in the event of a complete breakdown are vastly increased. Russia has already promised President Makarios aid against aggression, although by no means with the enthusiasm and completeness which he had wished. Now Egypt takes its place on the ring of spectators who could quickly become participants in the Cypriot quarrel. And with Russia as the main source of Egyptian arms, there is every reason for a sombre view of the latest development.

It is increasingly obvious that President Makarios has little thought for the potential repercussions of his actions. He is concerned only with imposing his own settlement on Cyprus. If this sets Greece and Turkey at each other's throats —President Makarios is prepared to accept this cost. If it brings Russian military force into the Mediterranean islands, perhaps permanently, he is prepared to accept that cost. If it wrecks the Mediterranean section of NATO, and hence the defensive system to which Greece and Turkey have contributed as allies, he is prepared to accept that cost. If it leads to the ultimate stupidity of a world war, he is prepared to accept that cost.

He will accept these costs, but it will not be President Makarios who pays them. They will be paid by all the other countries that are dragged into the fight. But the fact that Cyprus, and President Makarios, would have very little chance of emerging from such a struggle seems not to have occurred to him.

There is too much of the determined suicide in President Makarios' attitude to leave much hope of lucid negotiation with him. There is too much fanaticism displayed by both factions on Cyprus to leave much hope that mere talk will now achieve a settlement. It becomes increasingly obvious that the affairs of Cyprus, with justice to the Greek-Cypriots and protection for the Turkish-Cypriots, will not be settled internally.

This is a case in which the larger power of the United Nations should be exerted to do what President Makarios and the Cypriots clearly cannot do. Merely sending police as spectators is not enough. Since the Cypriot government has deliberately involved other countries in what they claim is an internal quarrel, the world's international organization should claim jurisdiction and impose a settlement which will get the Turkish and Greek governments off the horns of their dilemma and remove this island of half a million as a threat to the world's three and a half billion.

Head Office Decision

THE COMPLETE LACK OF Canadian participation in the current two-week construction and building machinery trade fair in Moscow seems, on the surface at least, to be rather singular.

The industry is well developed in Canada. The Russians have advertised widely the fact that they need to buy construction equipment for their $40 billion industrial development program. So why aren't Canadian firms which make bulldozers and cranes and other construction equipment bidding for orders which would help boost Canada's exports?

The answer, according to the Financial Times, is that almost the entire heavy equipment industry in Canada is American-owned and orders have come from head offices in the United States not to sell to Russia. Eighteen other countries are represented at the Moscow fair, including Britain, France, Sweden, Japan and Italy—but not Canada and not, needless to say, the United States.

There appear to be two reasons for the order to Canadian subsidiaries of American firms not to try to sell machinery to Russia. One is that a number of products which the Russians want are on the American State Department's strategic embargo list, although they are not prohibited by Canadian law. The second reason is that the American manufacturers are afraid that if they sell, or even show, their products in Russia, Soviet designers will copy them and the Russians will turn out their own machines.

The second reason given seems rather naive despite the Soviet record of unscrupulousness in pirating foreign designs, since if the design for any American-made machine is wanted by Moscow there would be no particular difficulty in obtaining it. The country which stole the plans for the nuclear bomb would have little trouble in getting hold of the design for the latest crawler tractor or pneumatic drill. In most cases it would be mainly a matter of reading the latest American technical and engineering journals.

But the main reason for the refusal of American firms to let their subsidiaries sell to the Russians, fear of violating State Department embargo regulations, is quite a different matter and an increasingly important one in view of American domination of the Canadian industrial scene.

Canadians are often told that American ownership of industry and resources in this country is nothing to worry about since they are regulated by Canadian law. However, when this is put to the test as in the present case of selling machinery to Russia it appears that it is United States' law which governs the export activities of American subsidiaries in this country.

By Mutual Consent

THE SIGNING NEXT FRIDAY in Tokyo of Canadian-Japanese conventions on taxation and visa requirements will mark another important step in developing friendly relations between the two countries.

The agreements are of particular interest in British Columbia where Japanese participation in exploitation of mineral resources, and in other fields, has assumed such importance as a factor in boosting the provincial economy. They will make it easier for Japanese businessmen to do business here and for Japanese visitors to travel to this country.

The tax pact is similar to agreements which Canada has with a number of other countries for avoiding double taxation of persons doing business in both countries, while the visa waiver agreement will extend to Japanese the privilege of traveling in Canada on the same terms as citizens of the Commonwealth, the United States, NATO countries and some other friendly foreign countries. Needless to say the agreements are reciprocal and will be of benefit to Canadians doing business and travelling in Japan.

The Young Find It Easier to Enter Into the Mood of the First Great War Than to Understand the Frightening, Terrible Task of the World In 1939

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

THE twenty-fifth anniversary of the Second World War falls in the same year, almost in the same month, as the fiftieth anniversary of the First. Those who are young today and can remember neither war seem to find it easier to enter into the mood of the 1914-18 war than to understand what happened to the world in 1939.

There are good reasons for this. The first is that no serious person wanted the war of 1914-18, just as nobody wants war today. Whereas in September, 1939, nearly every politically minded Englishman positively welcomed the war against Hitler when it came—but as a terrible and frightening task.

It must be the hardest thing in the world for those who grew up in the present world situation to grasp the mood of bewilderment and indecision which paralysed the country during the thirties. We were a liberal democracy in a world which had no place for liberal democracies. Our world was Europe; America simply did not count as an international Power: she had contracted out. And Europe was hopelessly split in the struggle between Fascism and Communism. Neither Fascists nor Communists played the game according to the only rules we knew: they simply were not interested in what we had to say. There was only one hope for us. This was to work through the League of Nations in building up a code of new rules while both Fascists and Communists were weak.

The League at the beginning of the thirties was very largely an instrument of Great Britain and France. Even without America, it had a useful future provided only that Britain and France put all their weight behind it. The beginning of its end came in 1931, when a British Administration prevented the League from taking action against Japanese aggression in Manchuria. After that it was worth less and less, and we were on our own, with a bitterly divided France as our only sizeable friend.

Nineteen thirty-one also saw the beginning of the great depression with its appalling trail of unemployment, hunger and despair. In Great Britain, the Government's betrayal of the League and its total failure to cope with unemployment, between them gradually created a situation in which the country was to be divided with a thoroughness and a bitterness that had not been known since the Boer War and was not to be known again until Suez. This situation was to endure for eight years.

Some divisions are creative; useful heat is generated. Others are sterile. The division of the thirties was sterile; neither side had a constructive idea; both sides thought in negatives.

Sherman, Victoria Daily Times.

FROM WASHINGTON

Atlantic City Reviewed by An Old Codger

CODGERISM is the typical behavior of an old codger; and an old codger is most typically occupied when he compares the present with the past, generally to the disadvantage of the former. These definitions are in order, because it has to be admitted that this reporter's after-thoughts about the Democratic convention were strongly tinged with codgerism. There were so many departures from older American political practices. The modern presidency was so glaringly highlighted, the development of the office in the last 25 years was so powerfully emphasized. Codgerism was unavoidable.

Consider, then, what the presidency of the United States looked like only a little more than a quarter-century ago, when this reporter first came to Washington. The best symbol of the great change since that forgotten era is simply the fence around the White House.

Iron Pickets

There was a fence, to be sure. President Theodore Roosevelt had surrounded the White House grounds with low iron pickets, because he wanted to stop the public using the south lawn as an easy short cut from the old State Department to the Treasury. This fence's installation had caused cries of outrage, too, because the desire for any fence at all was held to be stand-offish and undemocratic.

Yet T.R.'s fence, which still served F.D.R., was not high enough to keep out an athletic eight-year-old child who wished to climb over it. The present fence, which is carefully designed to frustrate even adult fence-climbers, was only installed at the beginning of the Second World War, because the secret service insisted upon it. And its installation caused a lot of ugly murmuring about F.D.R.'s high and mighty dictatorial tendencies.

As with the fence, so it was with almost everything else. The tight security precautions; the omnipresent guards; the elaborate cards which must now be carried by newspaper men and officials with regular business at the White House—all these were non-existent. The president was guarded, of course, but not noticeably. To all outward appearances he lived almost as any other American might live who had a fine house and a good salary.

Unknown Ceremonial

The ceremonial of the modern presidency was also a thing unknown and unimagined. By F.D.R.'s time had dropped the old custom of letting any American of reasonably respectable appearance call at the White House on New Year's Day. But beyond waiting for the president to leave the room first, and never forgetting to call him "Mr. President," there was no ceremonial of any sort.

In that long-gone age, indeed, people still recalled the "republican principles" that caused the first United States Congress to reject John Adams' titles of honor Bill. Letters addressed to "The Honorable Mr. and Mrs." were still thought a bit ridiculous; a senator could still be called "Mr. this-or-that," and as for addressing an American diplomat as "Ambassador what's-your-name," it would have caused a roar of laughter.

You could not help but think about that simpler era, so much more republican in the ancient, non-partisan sense of the word, if you watched the convention at Atlantic City. The episode of the vice-presidency was the heart of the matter, for there would have been an uproar, in old days, if the choice had been made in quite that way.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey is a man of the highest ability, and most of the delegates were delighted when Humphrey was chosen. And yet, and yet—a good many of the delegates would have preferred to retain at least the semblance of some say in the matter. And there was something oddly novel, something quite out of tune with the older, simpler America, about the president's grandiose appearance to reveal his choice of Humphrey.

Codgerism about Atlantic City is, of course, illogical, as codgerism almost always is. It is now essential for the president to be careful in choosing his potential successor. And going through the motions of pretending that others should make the choice is an old-fashioned thing to do.

Old Pretence

By the same token, the old pretence that the president is just another American citizen who happens to occupy the White House is by now wholly out of date. The security precautions that surround and hedge off the president nowadays are absolutely essential, as we all have tragic cause to know.

So, too, the presidential panoply of power and authority, which was so conspicuous at Atlantic City, merely reflects the inner reality of the terrible burden of power that every American president must carry in the age of the H-bomb. We cannot go back; we must go forward; and as we go forward, appearances change along with everything else.

Yet these changes are a warning that every American who now votes for a new president is making a choice quite different from the voter's choice a few decades ago. That is the real point to remember, indeed.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Error Corrected

When I was staying in Victoria early this month I was interviewed by one of your reporters. I have just received a copy of your paper of Thursday, August 6, and find that I have been misquoted, as follows:

"Mr. Genser is proud that the Manitoba Theatre Centre has never taken a subsidy from the government or the city."

I did say that I hoped the time would come when we would have sufficient season ticket holders and subscribers and would not have to take a subsidy from the government or the city. I did make reference to the fact that Canada Council, the Province of Manitoba and Metropolitan Winnipeg give us large donations. Also a large number of prominent business organizations gave us operating fund donations.

I enjoyed the interview but feel that if possible this error should be published.

P. GENSER,
President,

be delighted to pay $15 for dentures. I have recently paid a bill of $75 for a partial plate of six teeth. Spectacles here cost anywhere from $20 to $30. A visit to a doctor's office is minimum $5 and for a specialist from $10 up.

In Canada the old-age pension is paid at the age of 70 and not 65 as in the U.K. and most other countries. As the life expectancy for a man is between 71 and 72 and we pay 3 per cent on our income-tax I can assure "Visitor" that the prospect is not rosy.

I would strongly urge "Visitor" during his stay in Canada to try and rent an unfurnished house or apartment, visit a doctor or dentist, purchase prescription of other drugs, inquire about the price of dentures and spectacles and purchase food and clothing. He would then soon see if the cost of living is really lower in Canada than in the U.K. Of course our wages here are higher and our standard of living is also higher but the average Canadian owes far more to his bank or finance company than his counterpart in the U.K.

It is just nonsense to think or say that anything in this world is free. However, in the U.K. general taxation paid by those able to pay—the only fair way—picks up a large part of the cost of social services including education. Here in Canada a larger part is paid in direct taxes.

Famous Last Words

RICHARD T. COOPER (1923-1960)

Cooper paid for the murder of two San Francisco women in San Quentin's gas chamber. He willed his body to a medical school, and just before his death he said to the chaplain: "Hey, I'm going to college! Tomorrow I'll be staring up at the students from a table in some classroom."

The average Canadian family which can obtain medical insurance pays far more than the figures he quotes as prevailing in the U.K. and for this we receive very limited benefits as drugs, eye care and dental treatment are excluded. In addition we pay a 5 per cent sales tax plus $1 per day while in hospital.

The average Canadian would be delighted to pay 28 cents for each item of a prescription. Here the simplest prescription costs $5 or more. Similarly we would pay 28 cents for a simple prescription.

What frightens moderate Chileans, however, is not so much what Allende might do, but that, whatever it was, it might frighten the Right into drastic retaliation, which could only mean bloodshed. This is alien to Chilean character and tradition, but so was Brazil's coup d'état this year to her.

The Chileans, of course, are voting for their own interests, and don't really care what effect their choice will have on support for Senator Goldwater or on events elsewhere in Latin America. But the repercussions outside Chile, if Allende were elected, could be considerable.

B.C. PARADISE FOR SPORTSMEN

BIG GAME ABOUNDS

British Columbia is reputed to have the greatest variety, quantity and quality of big game on the North American Continent. Bighorn, Stone and Fannin sheep, elk, caribou, moose, goat, deer, grizzly, black and brown bear, wolf and cougar are all to be found.

In few cases is it necessary to travel far from railroad or main highways to reach game country. Success generally rewards the hunter who is prepared to spend the time and effort required.

Much of the topography of British Columbia is rugged and steep, and following the game-trails sometimes calls for quite a degree of physical effort.

However, there are places where the hunting is much less strenuous and where those who doubt their ability to travel over the ridges and along the higher altitudes will find excellent sport.

Examples of this type of terrain are to be found on Vancouver Island:

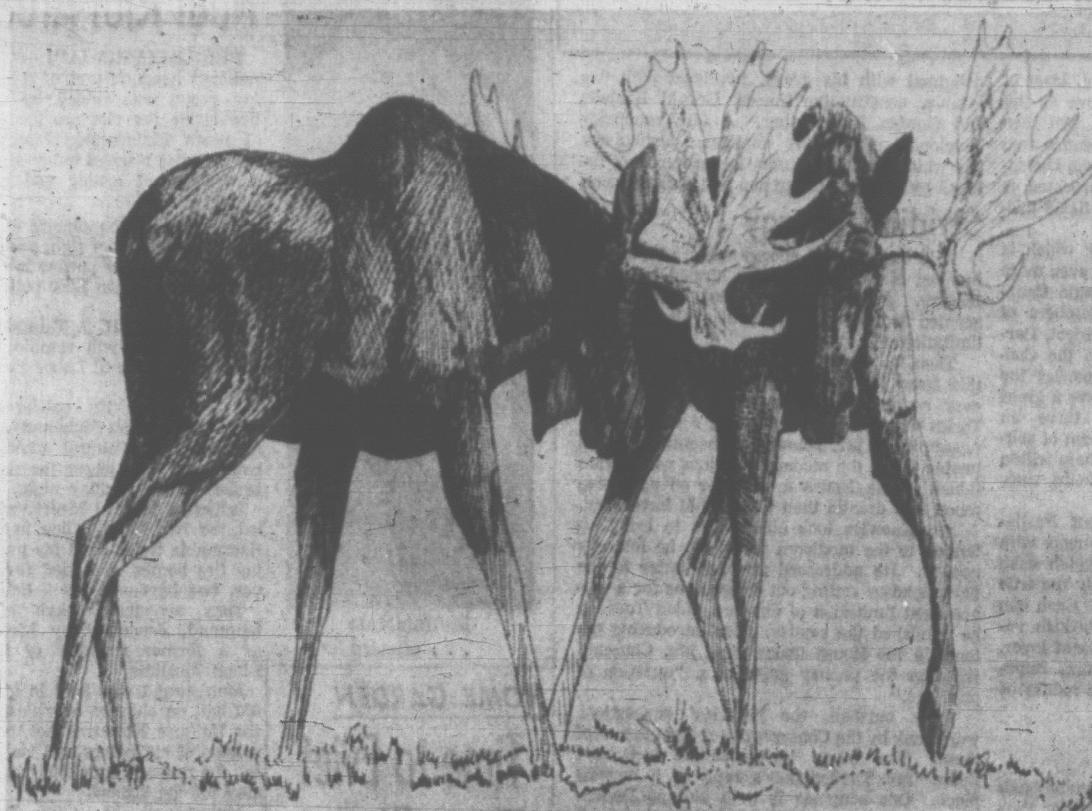

The Cassiar, where saddle-horses can be used to extensively than a short stalk brings the game into range, is known to hunters the world over for its magnificent moose, caribou, Stone and Fannin sheep, goat, and bear.

Stuart Lake, reached easily from Vanderhoof, is wonderfully prolific of fish and game, and gives access to other lakes quite as promising.

Some 70 miles east of Quesnel, and accessible by road, is the Bowron Lake Game Reserve, in the heart of a magnificent country inhabited by moose, goat, and bear, and containing some of the province's best fishing.

The Chilcotin country, lying to the west of the Fraser River, affords excellent hunting prospects for California bighorn sheep, moose, goat, grizzly, black bear, and mule deer. It produces many head of game animals each year.

At Kamloops the hunter can outfit for the North Thompson and Wells Gray Park areas, which produce excellent moose-hunting. It is possible to reach moose country in a day's travel by car from Vancouver.

Finest Fishing Ahead

Some of the finest and most exciting fishing of the year lies ahead on Vancouver Island.

Tee fishing is at its peak in the Alberni Canal, at Campbell River and Comox.

Coho fishing will be at its best in the fall months, offering as it does the fine thrill of hooking coho up to and past 16 pounds on the surface with fast-trolled bucktail flies.

SCRAPPY COHO

The scrappy coho are generally available in the fall along much of the east coast of Vancouver Island.

Springs also remain available in limited quantities for the anglers going after them, but the emphasis in September and October definitely swings to the coho.

When both tee and coho fishing passes, there is still good fishing all winter long, with the emphasis then on winter springs.

WINTER BEST

Many anglers feel that the greatest pleasure of fishing comes when you watch the weather in winter, catch a nice day, and tie into a good run of winter springs. On nice days, it is surprising to see how many fishermen are out on the salt-chuck.

When the coho move through the passes in the fall, making for their spawning grounds, they are big and mean. No longer the three-to-eight-pounders that have been particular fun this summer, the 12-16-pounders bolt out to take the skinnin' flies and are really tackle-busters.

One tip: When fishing in the fall, take along lots of tackle. It's frustrating to hit a hot run, and have to go in with all your tackle broken or gone.

Grizzly Bears Range Wide Across B.C.

The grizzly bear is one of the most widely distributed game animals in British Columbia and is also one of the most difficult to hunt. They are hunted in both spring and fall.

During fall hunts, when they are pursued in conjunction with other game animals, grizzly bears have shorter hair than spring bears. Early-spring hides are usually superior because the winter coat is fully developed.

Fall grizzlies are available over most of the northern sections of the province and especially so near the salmon spawning streams at the heads of the mainland inlets. Guide services are available from Bella Coola and other coastal points.

The East Kootenay also offers good grizzly-hunting and excellent guiding services are also found there.

There are no grizzlies on Vancouver Island or any of the coastal islands.

Leave Camps Clean Be Sure You're Seen

1. Leave a clean camp and a clean record, do not leave entrails and refuse on or near highways and camp grounds.
2. BE SEEN. BE SAFE. WEAR BLAZE ORANGE. GIVE YOURSELF A BREAK.
3. To enjoy your game meat, look after it properly.

Moose Move South

The moose is the largest member of the deer family found in British Columbia and an adult bull could weigh from 900 to 1,200 pounds or more. Moose are widely distributed in British Columbia and are found in extreme northern regions and south almost to the United States border. They have pushed southward during the past 60 years or so and were almost unknown in the central interior south of Prince George until quite recently.

Best hunting is now in the south Peace River area; in the regions west of Quesnel and Prince George around areas such as Cotsa Lake, Burns Lake, Vanderhoof, Fort Fraser, Francois, Stuart, Babine and Takla Lakes.

B.C. Elk Range In Limited Areas

Elk have a somewhat restricted range in British Columbia compared with that of other big game animals. They are most abundant in the East Kootenays with the centre of abundance in the Rocky Mountains between Cranbrook and Golden. Here there is the longest season.

Elk also occur in the Trutch region of the Alaska Highway, but they are not abundant.

Small elk herds are also found in the South Okanagan, Princeton, Adams River (Kamloops) areas but they do not offer sufficient chances for success to attract large numbers of hunters.

Roosevelt elk occur on Vancouver Island, but hunter success is low.

Swans, cranes, herons and gulls are protected under the Federal Migratory Birds Act. Hawks, owls and eagles are protected under the Provincial Game Act.

To allow any dog to hunt or run any caribou, moose, wapiti, or deer at any time, or to run at large hunting game birds between April 1 and July 31, both dates inclusive.

One complete wing must be left attached to each migratory bird for the purposes of identification.

Any crippled bird retrieved by a hunter must be immediately killed by the hunter and become part of his bag-limit.

No person shall at any time kill or attempt to kill any migratory game bird with a rifle.

The use of live decoys in the hunting or taking of any migratory game birds anywhere in the province is prohibited. No person shall, while hunting migratory game birds, have with him more than one shotgun at one time.

'Give Us Better Share Or Else' WFC Warns

REGINA (CP) — The Leader-Post says Western Football Conference team managers have challenged the Eastern Conference to either work out a better share of television receipts or see the inter-locking CFL schedule go down the drain.

The newspaper says the WFC managers approved the move to televising of games involving the five western clubs—Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton, Calgary and Vancouver—for $200,000.

IGNORE PLEAS

The newspaper says the EFC has ignored pleas from the west to band together and sell the rights to all games in a nine-team package with each club getting an equal share.

WFC clubs contend the EFC teams are reaping large benefits from interlocking games played in the west—which attract large viewing audiences in the big eastern cities—at the expense of the WFC teams.

"They're just using the western teams and not giving us anything in return," one WFC club official was quoted as saying in Edmonton.

"They sell the eastern rights largely on the strength of 30 interlocking games played in the west between eastern and western teams. These games are televised back to the big markets in the east and the eastern clubs are cashing in."

A spokesman for Pedder Bay Marina reported five limit takes out of 12 boats fishing Sunday.

The whole thing started Saturday night.

The coho have not reached Oak Bay yet, but they are expected.

The federal department of fisheries said a run of coho comes down the strait every year at this time, but it does not have a name.

COHO PLENTIFUL — IN THE STRAIT

Looking for coho? The Strait of Juan de Fuca seems to be the place.

A run appears to be coming down the strait, and extremely good catches have been reported at both Pedder and Becher Bay.

A spokesman for Pedder Bay Marina reported five limit takes out of 12 boats fishing Sunday.

The whole thing started Saturday night.

The coho have not reached Oak Bay yet, but they are expected.

The minute details have to be finalized, but it is almost certain that the almost-forgotten match-play challenge between the Island Open and mainland champions will be held Oct. 4.

The match between Victoria's Laurie Carroll and Vancouver's Lyle Crawford is to be staged at one of the mainland clubs, possibly Shaughnessy.

The Vancouver Province and the Daily Times jointly sponsor the trophy.

Crawford won it last year, defeating Bill Wakeham with a powerful, superb display at Uplands. It's possible Wakeham might get into the act again, because the Vancouver people are contemplating matching the runners-up at the same time.

Wakeham was beaten by Carroll in this year's Island Open final, while Crawford downed likeable Al Nelson on the mainland.

Proceeds from the day will be turned over to the BCPGA's junior development school.

GERRY MacKENZIE

Gerry MacKenzie likes Victoria, but he won't compare it with Calgary because the word might get back to his home town. Still, the personable 24-year-old wants to give up Victoria's bright lights for the leisurely life of Las Vegas.

Bill Court's assistant at Colwood for the past few months, MacKenzie has received a fine offer to move in as an assistant pro at the new Emerald Dunes Golf and Country Club in Las Vegas.

He's to report Nov. 1.

MacKenzie has been there before. He worked at the Star Dust (golf) club before coming to Victoria.

Don't be too surprised, in a few years, to hear or read about a Mickey Mantle winning a pro tournament.

The prospect isn't far-fetched one because the New York Yankee baseball star is grooming No. 1 son, also named Mickey, to become a golf pro. Daddy Mick, who isn't known to exaggerate, says his 11-year-old son can powder the ball 200 yards off the tee now.

When the word gets out, the publicity will be great for golf. Wonder how the baseball people are gonna take it, though?

A couple of unusual rulings highlighted the third round of the $200,000 World Open golf championship Saturday and affected the bids of two players.

Bill Casper, in strong contention for the lead, hit his second shot on the second hole into a sand trap in front of the green and then walked onto the green.

While he was not looking, his caddy took one step into the trap to retrieve a rake and then proceeded to rake over his own footprints.

Casper's card came to the scorers' tent recording a 69, one under par, and putting Casper one over par for the tournament.

Casper was given a two-stroke penalty, a 6 instead of a 4, on the second hole and a 71.

The players are responsible for their caddies' actions. A two-stroke penalty is assessed for touching the sand before a shot from a bunker is made.

The other ruling affected Ken Venturi, the present U.S. Open champion.

Venturi's second shot on the 18th hole buried under the lip of the trap between the grass and the sand. Venturi, examining the lie, called for an official ruling. He was given permission for a free drop.

Venturi dropped the ball three times and each time the ball rolled into the sand. Then he was given permission to place the ball.

He spotted it in the sand, blasted out to within five feet, and made his putt for a 4.

Coach Loses Protest

VANCOUVER (CP) — Despite protests from a coach, the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association Monday night voted to permit non-resident Canadians to compete for spots on Canada's Olympic team.

Earlier Monday Howard Kirby who will coach Canada's 14-member team in the Tokyo Olympics, said such a move "be a step backwards 100,000 years."

"If they are chosen it would ruin team morale. I wouldn't want them on the team."

He was referring to three who are here from California to participate in the trials that start today: Barbara Hounsell and her brother Robert and Marion Ley.

Miss Ley is from Covina, Calif., and has not lived in Canada for 10 years. She has swum the 110-yard freestyle in 1:02.8, compared to the Canadian record of 1:03.6.

Miss Hounsell is a top star in the 440-yard individual medley. She is from Temple City, Calif. It was not known Monday night what her brother was best at.

The three still retain their Canadian citizenship.

The trials start at 5 p.m. today.

NO WONDER THEY HELD HIS NAME!

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — A lone bettor won $46,914.60 in the twin-double Saturday at Timonium race track — the largest payoff in Maryland racing history.

Bob Sloan, the mutuels manager, said the winner was from a small town between Baltimore and Washington.

"We can't reveal his name. His neighbors would hunt him to death."

The previous Maryland high of $37,528.20 was paid last Dec. 3 at Pimlico.

Mickey Thompson Must Stop Racing

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Millionaire race driver Mickey Thompson, holder of nearly 200 speed records, has been ordered to give up racing because of a suspected heart ailment.

The 34-year-old Thompson blacked out three times in two days after racing a sports car at the Bonneville Salt Flats west of Salt Lake City. A heart specialist, Dr. Roy McDonald, was quoted as saying the cardiogram hasn't determined the extent of damage but Thompson "definitely will not be allowed to race again."

TOKYO: Motoo Watanabe, 147, Japan, knocked out Lee Kyo Sae, 167½, South Korea, 4.

IN ACTION tonight for Greaves Movers will be catcher Barry Cosier, as Movers take on Transport Workers in the third and deciding game of the Senior Amateur Baseball League championship. Game time is 7 at Royal Athletic Park.

The players are responsible for their caddies' actions. A two-stroke penalty is assessed for touching the sand before a shot from a bunker is made.

The other ruling affected Ken Venturi, the present U.S. Open champion.

Leafs Turn Down Lease Deal to Build Coliseum

VANCOUVER (CP) — Stafford Smythe, president of the Toronto Maple Leafs, has rejected a city offer of a free, 125-year lease on land if he would build an $8,000,000 sports arena.

The National Hockey League club president wanted an all-out gift of two city blocks, valued by council at $2,000,000.

HERE'S A NEW EXPLANATION

Ottawa (UPI) — The Eastern Conference Ottawa Rough Riders have suspended sophomore Canadian defensive halfback Peter Quinn for failing to report to practice for two days.

Quinn, who is employed by Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., told general manager Red O'Quinn he was so upset by rumors he would be traded, it had made it difficult for him to perform his work properly.

MAJORS' TOP FIREMAN . . .

Radatz Can Still Comb His Hair

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dick Radatz is about to set a major league record which should earn him a nifty pay raise plus a lot of needling about whether he still can lift his right arm enough to comb his hair.

Radatz has pitched in 66 games for Boston so far. He needs to work in only nine more to break the modern record of 74 set by Jim Konstanty of the Phillies in 1950 and nine games for Radatz is about as tough as snapping his fingers.

He isn't the least bit worried about overworking his arm, either.

"I'm not tired at all," insisted the hulking, six-foot-six, 235-pound right-hander while changing his sweatshirt in front of his locker.

"Yeah, I know some people think my arm is failing off, but it's not true. I do think some pitchers wear their arms out or come up with sore arms but only because they throw a lot of breaking pitches."

"It's different with me, though," he went on. "I'd say at least 90 per cent of my pitches are fast balls. They don't tire me out at all. I've never felt this good since I've been in baseball."

"Besides," Radatz continued, "hard work never killed anyone. Look at Wyatt. He's pitched in 68 games already."

The Red Sox relief ace was referring to Kansas City's John Wyatt, who isn't bad, either, but can't match Radatz' 22 saves, 2.00 earned run average or 12-8 record.

He said, "The way this guy hits me, I think I'll just keep the ball, period."

Radatz, who already has equalled his total appearances for 1963, says he'd like very much to break Konstanty's record.

"Everyone likes a little recognition," he said. "I compare us (relief pitchers) to linemen in football. The backs usually get all the recognition and the linemen like some, too."

Even more than the record, though, the 27-year-old Radatz would like to win the outstanding American League relief pitcher trophy awarded by the Sporting News each year.

"I won it in 1962 but Stu Miller beat me out by two points last year," he said. "I'd sure like to have it this year."

Radatz says he has absolutely no desire to start a ball game.

"I'm perfectly happy doing what I am," he declared. "I think I have the most challenging job in baseball."

Amnesty Fails To End Fear Among Chinese

VANCOUVER (CP) — Twin tales of fear were told here Monday by Chinese immigrants. For some, granted amnesty as illegal entrants who came to Canada falsely identified as relatives of close friends, the fear has ended.

For an estimated 500 Chinese, however, the fear remains.

A 38-year-old father of three, who declined to give reporters his name, said in an interview he is not eligible for recently announced legal entry status because he came here on a forged passport.

"The fear started on the freighter trip out here," he said.

"I was afraid someone would ask me a question about Canada that I couldn't answer."

"It never really went away because any sort of check on the passport would give me away. Even getting stopped for a traffic ticket makes me cringe."

To get the false passport in Hong Kong, he said, he borrowed about $500 in Canadian currency to pay to a dealer. Passport dealers have contacts in Canada who get real passports from Chinese-Canadians and send them to the Orient where they are altered to suit the new owners.

'COUSINS HID ME'

"When I arrived in Vancouver some cousins hid me for a few days until I found a job. Then I started hiding myself."

He said the Chinese community here has a protective mechanism that warns members when immigration or RCMP men are getting close.

Lam Yung Foon and Lam Yung Chow are two illegal immigrants who did qualify for amnesty. They are brothers.

"Every time we wake up, we wondered if that day would be our last in Canada," Lam Yung Chow said.

When the federal government announced amnesty in 1960, they "went down and became immigrants." Lam Yung Chow sent for his wife and four children, who recently arrived from Hong Kong.

The brothers had been in Canada illegally since 1956, sponsored by a cousin who said they were his sons.

THIRD CLASS

But there is a third class of illegal immigrant roaming Chinatown in a quandary.

He came to Canada after falsely stating he was related to his sponsor. He should qualify for amnesty, but doesn't dare apply.

In his case, the sponsor is here on an illegal passport. To name him could result in the sponsor being sent back to the Orient.

L. C. Hawkins, regional immigration director, says about 1,100 illegal immigrants have come forward to claim amnesty since the program was started.

He estimates another 2,000 remain in hiding. Some 500 are the forged-passport cases.

Far-Out Fiction 'Down to Earth'

SOUTHAMPTON, England — The science fiction writer who dreams up "bug-eyed monsters" on other planets is probably right, a British professor said Monday.

Prof. W. T. Williams told the British Association for the Advancement of Science that scientists who attempt science fiction are inhibited by the limitations of their training.

"But science fiction writers who postulate earth-type planets on which space travellers meet bizarre creatures, sometimes of great intelligence . . . are most plausible," he said.

Williams suggested that scientists take science fiction courses to "understand better the nature of their own mental scientific inhibitions."

Williams speculated on some of the other beings in the universe:

• "Jupiter Man" might be a grotesque being swimming in the seas of ammonia that cover the planet.

• "Mercury Man" might be made of rock and have such a

BAILIFF'S BID DOUSED BY BANKS' SPRINKLERS

MONTREAL (CP) — A bailiff who went to seize the removable property of Hal Banks, former president of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.), left empty-handed Monday after failing to get into Banks' suburban home.

Bailiff Perry Guralnick rang the bell at the house in the west-end suburb of Pointe Claire but got no answer. He tried the back door, then the front door again—without results.

SPRINKLER ATTACK

When someone in the house turned on the sunken lawn sprinkler system Guralnick gave up.

The bailiff's action was authorized last Friday in Superior Court after John J. Wood, ex-preserved SIU official, filed damage action against the union and Banks for $16,000.

Meanwhile, the government was urged, Monday to ensure that Hal Banks does not get his financial assets out of Canada.

David Pugh (PC—Okanagan-Boundary) and Paul Martineau (PC—Pontiac-Temiscamingue) sought assurances that the deposed president of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.), sought on criminal charges, has not fled with financial assets.

Justice Minister Favreau said all possible steps were being taken to see that Banks doesn't escape Canadian laws.

GYROS' SONS ATTEND LUNCH

A double feature was laid for sons of Victoria Gyro Club members at the annual father-son luncheon Monday.

Before lunch in the Colony Hotel, the youngsters went swimming in the hotel's outdoor pool.

And after lunch a program of pop music was laid on.

The "Illusions"—three guitarists and a drummer—played a selection of numbers from the "Shadows" album and one recorded by the Beatles.

In all more than 30 youngsters turned up, almost outnumbering Gyros present.

CHINESE ADMIRAL DIES AFTER RAID

TAIPEI (AP) — A Formosan news agency reported Monday a Chinese Communist admiral was fatally injured in the U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam Aug. 5.

The China Union Press, which claims underground contacts on the Chinese mainland, said the officer was Rear-Admiral Chao Pei-Yuan, deputy commander of the Yulin naval base on Hainan Island across the Gulf of Tonkin from Viet Nam.

JFK Library Fund Climbs

BOSTON (AP) — The John F. Kennedy Memorial Library fund has passed the $6 million mark.

A family spokesman said Sunday the Kennedy family has been "particularly impressed by the industrious youngsters who have staged parties and other activities" to raise money for the proposed $10 million library to be built at Harvard University.

David Pugh (PC—Okanagan-Boundary) and Paul Martineau (PC—Pontiac-Temiscamingue) sought assurances that the deposed president of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.), sought on criminal charges, has not fled with financial assets.

Justice Minister Favreau said all possible steps were being taken to see that Banks doesn't escape Canadian laws.

Pope's Inter-Faith Centre Called Step Toward Unity

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul plans an interfaith centre in Jerusalem to commemorate his historic meeting with Orthodox Patriarch Athanasios of Constantinople (Istanbul) in the Holy Land last January.

In disclosing the proposal Monday night, a high Vatican source said Christians would join with non-Christians in religious studies at the centre.

The project was seen as a major step toward Christian unity as well as improved relations between Christianity and other faiths.

The Pope has entrusted preparations for the centre to Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of the University of Notre Dame, South Bend, Ind., the source said. Father Hesburgh also is the Vatican's permanent delegate to the International Atomic Energy Agency, meeting now in Geneva, and president of the International Federation of Catholic Universities. Pope Paul received Father Hesburgh at a private audience at his Castel Gandolfo summer home last weekend. With Father Hesburgh was Ignatius A. O'Shaughnessy, an industrialist from St. Paul, Minn. O'Shaughnessy is described as one of several Americans interested in supporting the Pope's personal project.

STUDY DOCTRINES

The centre would be involved in research into the comparative doctrines of the major religions, with special focus on the Orthodox faith. Non-Christian scholars would take part in the program.

"The idea is that it should be staffed not only by Roman Catholics but rather that there should be a certain openness to scholars of non-Christian faiths," the Vatican official said.

Leo Hager and his far-roaming kayak in the Inner Harbor.

CROSSING STRAIT WAS 'A BREEZE'

Paddles His Own Kayak

By LESLIE MILLIN

A lean, salt-stained and independent young man paddled a kayak into the Inner Harbor on Monday night.

He moored it, lay down in the cockpit to sleep—and awoke this morning to find himself something of a celebrity.

A yachtswoman from a neighboring vessel brought a cup of coffee over to the huddled figure in the kayak.

She found that 21-year-old Lee Hager had paddled the 12-foot craft from his Friday Harbor home to Port Angeles and then to Victoria.

FOR FUN

Leo sat on the wharf this morning, his battered bare feet dangling over the kayak, and told a small crowd he made the trip "for fun."

His boat is a white fibreglass rig, with a home-made mast and rag-canvas sails.

"Kayak cost me $150 and this good paddle cost me $12," he said.

"The mast and sails didn't cost anything."

"I found the canvas—I even found the brass screws I needed."

SEEKING WORK

Leo, who planned to ship out before noon today, had not yet cleared customs.

Lying around him on the dock were some of the kayak's contents—a rifle, hunting knife, sleeping bags, foul weather gear and plastic cannister of fresh water.

Leo went from Friday Harbor to Port Angeles looking for work.

"Thought I might do some coon hunting or fox hunting—that's what the rifle's for," he said.

There wasn't too much doing there, so he rigged the mast and sails to the kayak year's.

and headed for Victoria about 1:30 p.m. on Monday.

"It was a nice crossing, real easy," he said.

There was no wind, just a breeze and a swell.

"It took me about eight hours to get across, and it was real smooth all the way."

"Except for one little thing. I just got up to the light out there (Brotchie Ledge) when a tug nearly ran me down."

TWO-FOOT WAVES

"He couldn't see me—I didn't have lights on this thing."

"I always do," he said.

$6,000 IN PRIZES AT 'OLDTIMER' FAIR

Busiest person on Vancouver Island this week is Mrs. E. V. (Pat) Woods, permanent secretary-treasurer of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society.

Her task is to record more than 3,000 entries, the largest in years, and to keep track of expenditures for the three-day 96th annual Saanichton fair which opens Saturday.

Over the Labor Day weekend, when the oldest fair in western Canada is in full swing, her job will be to record the names of hundreds of exhibitors who have won prizes in the various classes and sections of the exhibition.

Prize winners will receive trophies and money totalling more than $6,000.

Mrs. Woods will also be available at the society's office in the basement of the main agricultural hall to answer inquiries. She will be at her desk throughout the day and evening.

"We haven't yet counted the number of entries in this year's exhibition," said Mrs. Woods. "but we do know they number more than 3,000, more than last year."

There wasn't too much doing there, so he rigged the mast and sails to the kayak year's.

3 Admit Beating, Robbing Fourth Suspect Given Freedom

A 71-year-old man suffered extensive burns when an accumulation of propane gas exploded as he lit the cooker in his camper at Sooke this morning.

Matt Ball, 3168 Harriet, was blown eight feet by the force of the explosion and the blast buckled the roof of the camper and blew its door off.

He was rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital by West Coast Ambulance. He is described as being in fairly comfortable condition with first and second degree burns to his legs, thigh, arms and part of his face.

The three, who will appear in court together Wednesday for the facts of the case to be heard, are John T. Shaw, 20, of 905 Parklands; John Cottam, 21, of 1007 McCaskill; and Robert McLean, 607 Craigflower.

Oliver Cottam, 19, of 1007 McCaskill, was originally charged along with the other three. But in court this morning Crown Prosecutor Peter Birkett withdrew the charge.

INSUFFICIENT EVIDENCE

Mr. Birkett said there was "an insufficient amount of evidence" for the Crown to proceed. Cottam was immediately released from custody.

The charges of robbery with violence arose after Gustav Martin was robbed in his store at 785 Humboldt. He was lured to the rear of the store where he was assaulted. Meanwhile the cash register was robbed of $50.

The arrests were made after the car used by the robbers for their getaway crashed into a tree only four blocks from the scene of the crime.

A service club today proposed municipal boulevard trees be planted and marked in honor of newborn babes for a price.

Victoria Kiwanis Club made the suggestion and it was re ferred by city works committee to city manager Dennis Young for study.

Here's how it would work, club representative Dr. C. H. Borsman told the committee:

The parent or grandparent of a newborn baby could pay a fixed sum—possibly $20 or $25—to the club and it would arrange for planting of a boulevard tree and installation of a small metal marker in the adjoining sidewalk or a concrete block identifying the child.

MEET EXPENSE

Mr. Borsman said the fee would pay the municipality's expense in installing the tree—or at least a large part of it—the costs of promoting the venture and leave a small surplus over for the club's charities.

He said the subscribers would have no say in where the tree went because it would be located according to the city's own planting program.

Mr. Borsman said undoubtedly some of the popularity of the proposal would rest on vanity but he felt sure that it would be valuable in providing a personal involvement with Victoria for the families and also would give citizens a chance to participate in beautifying the city.

Union officials protested the appointment at the time, saying it infringed the spirit of the collective agreement, which provides for promotion to officer rank on the basis of seniority and experience.

Argument by Mr. Patterson was winding up at noon, and the hearing was expected to run much of the day.

LUXTON 4-H Wins Garden Display

Greater Victoria's reputation of being the most "garden-conscious" city in North America was upheld by members of the Luxton Garden 4-H Club at the Pacific National Exhibition.

The club won first prize for having the best garden display in provincial 4-H competitions.

The young people scored the highest points for the way they displayed their vegetables and arranged their flowers—an art which most Victoria gardeners excel in.

Dull Summer A Record At Least

June, July and August were the cloudiest on record in Victoria, and it appears September may not be any different.

Weather forecast for Wednesday is cloudiness in the night and morning with sunshine during the afternoon.

Below normal temperatures are expected with a range of 45 to 50 degrees in the night and 65 to 70 in the day. Winds will be essentially light with occasional fog patches over the water at night and early morning.

Outlook for Thursday is promising, said William Mackie.

An official report from the weather office showed there were only 705.5 hours of sunshine during June, July and August, making it the dullest summer on record.

The summer of 1954, with a total of 704.2 hours of sunshine, now takes second place, and the summer of 1956 is third with 779.1 hours.

In all it has been a dull year with the first eight months falling 241.5 hours short of the normal amount of sunshine.

During the month of August Victoria had more than twice the normal amount of rainfall with 1.04 inches compared with the normal of .71.

Mean temperature for the month was 59.4, while the normal is 59.1. Minimum temperature was 50.2 recorded on Aug. 14.

City Shipyard Strike Averted

Office Staff Agreement Worked Out

A basis of agreement has been worked out between office employees and management of Yarrows, ending threat of another strike at the shipyard.

Employees voted 35-9 for a strike in a government-sponsored ballot Monday afternoon.

But government conciliation officer W. T. McLaughlin told the Times today a memorandum of understanding for a three-year agreement has been reached since then.

$25 HIKE

It calls for an across-the-board increase of $25 a month, with employees in the two biggest categories—what the union considers the two lowest rungs of journeymen—getting an additional $12 a month.

Effective Jan. 1, 1965, all employees would get an additional $16 a month, with a $15 per month increase effective Oct. 15, 1965.

Yarrows and the union would agree to establish a standing committee to review questions of salary ranges.

Employees on the staff between April 15, 1963, and May 1, 1964, would receive a lump sum of $32 in lieu of retroactive pay.

SUPPORT INDICATED

Earlier, other yard sources had indicated that if office workers went on strike, their picket lines would be respected.

Revival of the Blouse
Lends a New Look to Fall

By PENNY SAVER

This year's all-out revival of the blouse has brought softness and femininity to the fore in fall fashions.

Elegant but casual is the "winning" look for those who make the most of new trends. It's not only the fabric that makes the news but also the style and variation of design.

Most popular are, of course, the bowed necks and blouson styles.

Numerous variations in style, however, leave a wide open field to those of you with time and initiative to create something new.

Colors are mad. Not only are plain shades taking on deeper more vibrant tones, but prints are being combined in the most wild combinations ever.

Still the most popular fabrics for the blouse are cotton and silk.

Both give a fresh, well-groomed look and are ideal for most every style.

Cotton material I noticed today comes in 36-inch width and sells at $1.50 a yard. It is, of course, easily cared for and makes up into the casual sportive styles with ease.

Pure silks selling at $6.98 a yard supply the elegant look and combine perfectly with jumpers and slim skirts. These are available in a wide selection of prints.

With colder weather just around the corner, you should start thinking along the line of what is new in wools.

One of the latest ideas is printed wools. These come in 36-inch widths and are priced from $5.98 a yard upwards.

They are ideal for jumpers, shifts and weskits as well as casual jackets for wear with slim skirts or slim jins.

Take a look at what's new in the fabric line for fall but first, call Penny at 382-3131.

Liquids Are Essential Aid For Beautiful Complexion

A beautiful complexion can compensate for many imperfections! While creams and lotions are important in the care of the skin, a woman must cultivate it in other ways, too.

Edith Imre, who is a graduate of Budapest's Royal Academy Cosmetology School, says that a flawless skin is the result of what we eat and drink and how we care for our bodies. Certainly what we eat and drink and what sort of health habits we have, and even how we think and feel, all have a terrific impact on the complexion.

Mrs. Imre has devoted many years to the study of the skin and is acutely aware of the importance of beauty to a woman.

One of the most effective ways of helping mentally disturbed, maladjusted or self-conscious individuals is to encourage them to improve their appearance and thus increase their self-confidence.

Mrs. Imre emphasized the importance of liquids in skin care. She said, "The skin must be cared for from the inside as well as the outside. Water and other liquids are cleansing agents and aid in the elimination of waste materials. Any woman bothered with complexion problems should increase her daily intake of liquids. Six to eight glasses will help."

She suggested that you need not neglect your liquid intake even if it is difficult to make yourself drink that much water daily. "The canned low-calorie soft drinks can help satisfy your need for liquids." A 12-ounce can has only three calories. This is an aid if you are weight-watching. Also coffee and tea, with one of the artificial sweeteners, have no calories. Some of your liquid intake should come from milk and fruit juices. Real dehydration is a serious health hazard and even mild dehydration can make the complexion drier and less supple. To emphasize the importance of an adequate liquid intake to complexion care, Edith Imre said, "You can help counteract a tendency of a dry skin by being sure that your liquid intake is sufficient. You don't wait for a wheel to squeak before you oil it and you should not wait until you are parched to drink liquids."

If you have skin blemishes and would like to have the names of some medicated cosmetics send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for "Cover-Up Aids for Blemishes and Scars" to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice: Do you have any suggestions about gathering a skirt? No matter what I gather, the thread always breaks before the job is finished.

Miss J.M.: Miss J.M.:

I am wondering if you are pulling the wrong threads. To avoid an error, I always tell my students to machine stitch on the RIGHT side of the fabric (the machine stitch should be slightly longer than your normal stitch; never the longest stitch unless you are working with very heavy fabric). It will also help if you would use nylon thread or buttonhole twist on your bobbin for added strength. One row of your machine stitching should be exactly on the $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch seamline, the second row should be $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch closer to the cut edge. Carefully take BOTH threads from the wrong side, in other words, the bobbin threads, and pull them together, easing a small area at a time.

If you follow these instructions carefully, you shouldn't have any more trouble. If you pull the wrong threads, the stitches will become locked, and you can never pull them.

Mrs. D. Hood and Mrs. G. Hood were co-hostesses at another shower held in the latter's home on Earl Grey Street.

Red rosebud corsages were presented to the bride-elect of next Saturday and her mother.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Political Impasse!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We have always avoided political arguments with our friends, but in recent weeks my husband and I have been drawn into several. The last was at our home. When my husband learned that our out-of-town house guest who had been his lifelong friend, was on the other side of the fence politically, he was astounded. A hot argument took place, which ended a friendship of many years. I say a person's political belief, like his religion, is his own business, and should not interfere with friendship. My husband says I am wrong—a person's political belief is an index to his character, and reveals his compassion (or lack of it) for his fellow man. He says he wants no part of friends who support the line of thinking that one political party is now supporting. I would like your opinion.

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Quite wondering. You were right about him in the first place. For get him.

DEAR ABBY: After putting up with an impossible man for nine years, I finally got a divorce. We separated several times, but I always went back to him because of the children, who are now four and seven. I agreed to let him pick up the children at 10 Sunday mornings and bring them back at 7. Now I would like to put a stop to it for the following reasons: It seems that my former husband has several girl friends, and each Sunday he takes the children to one of their homes. One Sunday the children reported that "Daddy was acting lovey-dovey with a red-headed lady." Another Sunday they said "Daddy was acting lovey-dovey with a yellow-haired lady." Need I say more? Also, he has brought them home as late as 10. I don't think this is the proper atmosphere for young children. What can be done?

ART'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If the matter of compassion is clearly evident on one side or the other, your husband is right. And where can one better practise compassion than with a friend? I say, stay in contact, talk it out, be sure of your facts, and don't become emotional. To end the friendship would also end all hope of educating a probably well-intentioned, but misguided, citizen.

DEAR ABBY: I was going steady with a boy I thought a lot of, but whenever we were alone he would try to get fresh with me. I always managed to keep him in his place for a while, but not for very long.

I finally asked him if he was going with me because he thought that in time he might be able to break down my will power. He said, no, that he has brought them home as late as 10. I don't think this is the proper atmosphere for young children. What can be done?

THEIR MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: A call to your lawyer is in order. Daddy is out of line.

Lunchboxes on the March Again

If you've joined the lunchbox brigade again—planning, preparing and packing daily lunches for your school-age children—then you'll probably welcome ideas for keeping that daily challenge from becoming a chore. Knowing what constitutes a really good lunch is half the battle, and having a "lunchbox" centre in your kitchen, regardless of how small it is, will speed up the daily "prep" routine at your house.

Stop the Monotony

By the way, those sandwich fillings which we labelled "substantial," are usually protein foods—meat, chicken, fish, cheese or eggs, or beans or peanut butter. Quite a line-up there for your selection, considering the great varieties of some of the categories, like cheese, meat or fish. A good thing too, for sandwich monotony can be a terrible thing for both the sandwich-maker and the sandwich-muncher.

You Can Eat Milk

Something hot is always welcome at lunch and school lunches are no exception. A thermos of soup is the easiest hot dish we can think of, and if you make it with milk, you'll be smartly slipping in an extra amount of this dairy food that's so essential for health. Other good dishes to send along now and then in the lunchbox are macaroni and cheese or spaghetti with cheese and tomato.

Or Drink Milk

Milk to drink is a very important part of a schoolboy's lunch . . . and a schoolgirl's too! If it can't be purchased at school, it will carry well and keep nice and cold in a thermos. Now and then, make it into a flavored drink, or a creamy smooth milkshake.

Pack It in a Paper Cup

Paper cups are a boon for you lunchbox-packer. You can fill them with anything from a side salad to a tasty dessert. How about tapioca pudding, smoothly covering a few fresh peach slices in the bottom of the cup? Or a flavored milk pudding—instant or otherwise—mixed with a few raisins or coconut. Or that perennial favorite, rice pudding!

French Couture Houses Release Photos of New Season Styles Month After Showings

PARIS (AP)—The ladies who couldn't get a glimpse of the famed fall and winter fashion collections over here finally got a look at them Sunday.

Photographs, strictly embargoed against fashion scouting, were released for press use about a month after fashion writers and buyers saw the real thing paraded by mannequins in the haute couture houses of this fashion capital.

In addition, the delay in photo publication gives foreign dressmakers who have bought designs an opportunity to get them into production.

The freshest wearable look seemed to be Dior's peasant skirt silhouette, called the "new look" by some. Dior's skirts are full and swinging on many of the models, with long and loose jackets or small and fitted basques.

Saint-Laurent presented no surprises, coming out with mid-calf length dresses for dinner wear as his most eye-catching style.

Many who saw Saint-Laurent's collection were amazed at the similarity to Chanel, with both showing simple suits and tiered skirts.

Saint-Laurent's tiers became multiple layers for evening wear, and there were long sweater dresses with ribbon belts.

Saint-Laurent and Cardin put skirts at mid-calf for dinner and theatre and Courreges went to the other extreme—way above the knee.

Courreges also showed pants with three-quarter coats and tunic tops, and boosted short shifts and boots.

Hermès displayed pants which were skirt-length and tubelike, showing from under shirt tunics or coats.

Cardin's offerings included straight jackets and hip-belts threaded through loosely. At both Cardin and Chanel, there were slim coats, wrapped and belted. They had wide reverses flapping open to the waistline.

Fur trim seemed to be popular everywhere—mink and sable collars, cuffs and hems. Black was seen widely in the fall and winter styles. Otherwise, there were quiet smoky shades of grey and brown, particularly at Saint-Laurent.

Wedding Vows in First United Church

Dr. John Garden officiated at the ceremony in First United Church last Saturday afternoon, which united Maureen Aven Work, daughter of Mrs. Maurice Andrew Work, 1725 Amphion Street, and the late Mr. Work, and Ronald Melvin Karagianis, son of Mr. John Karagianis and Mrs. J. Douglas, both of Victoria.

Yellow, white and coral gladioli decorated the church. Organist was Mrs. W. H. Gregory.

Given in marriage by her brother, David Lawrence Work, the bride wore a full-length gown of white peau de soie styled with long sleeves and slight scoop neckline. Applique roses enhanced the bodice and two small front pleats. The skirt was slightly en train.

A single satin and beaded pearl rose with velvet leaves held the four-tier chapel-length veil. The bride wore a pearl pendant from her throat and carried white roses and chrysanthemums.

Bridesmaids, the Misses Karen Dickson and Nan Gregory, and junior bridesmaid, Miss Juanita Karagianis, all chose short-length gowns of pale turquoise and white Swiss cotton. Their headpieces were single turquoise roses surrounded by scallops of turquoise tulle. They carried bouquets of yellow marguerites.

The three-year-old niece of the bride, Miss Leslie Gray, was flower girl. She wore a short frock of yellow lace, yellow and white taffeta roses in her hair and carried a nosegay of white marguerites.

Verne Simpson was best man. Ushers were Jack Karagianis and Ronald Burnham.

George F. Gregory proposed the toast at a reception in Oak Bay Beach Hotel. The bride's table was centred with a three-tier cake made by her mother. Floral arrangements of white and coral gladioli completed the decorations.

After a honeymoon on Pender Island, the couple will live in Vancouver.

For travelling the bride wore a beige raw silk suit with brown shoes and bag, pink hat and gloves and Venetian beads.

Celebrates 80th Birthday

There were approximately 200 guests when members of the White Cane Club, board members of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, women's auxiliary and volunteer drivers met to honor Mr. and Mrs. Eric Bretell and their daughter, Miss Joy Bretell. Affair, held in Olde England Inn, marked Mr. Bretell's 80th birthday.

Refreshments included a cake decorated with 80 candles. Auxiliary members acted as servers.

Mrs. Elizabeth Watling, president of the White Cane Club, presented the honor guest with a picture, painted by Mrs. Ina Morris, an auxiliary member. Mrs. Bretell received a bouquet of roses from Mrs. C. C. Wyatt.

Accordionist Al Denon led a program of community singing.

Mrs. Sabine is pictured on the sunny terrace that adds charm to "The Latch." Exterior walls and those of the large games room are attractively rustic, being formed of bark slabs.

Memories Abound Here

Have you ever imagined sleeping in a room once used by royalty?

Do you wonder how it would feel to live in the home of a former lieutenant-governor?

Both lie within the realm of possibility if you visit "The Latch," a 40-year-old house at Sidney, opened this summer as a residential hotel.

The house was built by the late W. C. Nichol, a former lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, and during the days when he owned it, many famous house guests were entertained there, including the Duke of Windsor, then Prince of Wales.

Newest owners are Mr. and Mrs. Herb Sabine, recently of Vancouver.

And, if the 14-room home has its place in local history books, Mr. and Mrs. Sabine have a right to share it.

MEDIEVAL MURALS

Highlight of the sunny dining room is the medieval murals that are painted on the paneling above the mantelpiece which is carved with a fresco of dogwood blossoms. In minute detail, the murals depict a king and queen, cardinal, knights in armor and castles.

Scores of arbutus trees and lovely woodland trails add to the beauty of the estate.

Many of the hedges which the property were planted by Mrs. George R. Pearkes, present chancery of Government House, during the days when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Copeman, had a country home on the site. Mrs. Pearkes and her father spent many an hour planting tiny seedlings that have now grown to magnificent maturity.

For Mr. Sabine, this will be his first venture into country living. An equipment salesman in Vancouver, he's looking forward to his retirement in a few months' time.

She'll also be remembered by those who frequented "The Thatch" at Royal Oak which she ran during the war years.

Today, she's almost as proud of her new home as the original Saanich Road.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

The David L. Wolper production "Biography" has to be classed as one of the best continuing documentaries on television today.

The program Sunday featured the life story of Communist Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung. It was an engrossing half-hour using film obviously smuggled out of that country in the early days of the leader's rise and more recent film showing Mao with Soviet leader Khrushchev.

The program didn't cause too much of a stir when first introduced several years ago, but as it continued to play in syndicated markets it gained recognition.

Sunday's show actually whetted the appetite for the CBC-TV production of Communist China today, expected sometime in October.

The country houses some 650,000,000 to 700,000,000 people and can't be ignored. Any film of life behind the Bamboo curtain should be welcomed as that we can become better acquainted with the nation which, historians say, is still to play an important role in the future affairs of this planet of ours.

The weekend television picture was dull aside from the sports events.

Even the usually better-than-average variety program Hollywood Palace was missing from the program lineup.

Stephen

Plugs for upcoming new television series, though, are becoming more and more evident.

The networks, including the two Canadian ones, are vying for the viewers' attention. Some of the program plugs are quite interesting but the real test will come when the shows finally hit the air.

There are other shows which are being rung in without too much fanfare.

For instance, Channel 7 will carry the Jo Stafford Show on Saturday, Sept. 5, at 7:30 p.m. Doesn't sound exciting? Well, this show was filmed on location at the London Palladium and with guest stars Robert Morley and Stanley Holloway, Jo will show off the famed music hall as it is today and help portray as it was in the days when vaudeville was at its height.

Another show is the Beatles special scheduled for 6:30 tonight on Channel 8. However, if you miss the 30-minute documentary, titled "Luv Them Beatles—Yeah, Yeah, Yeah," you can catch them in their Vancouver visit on Channel 6 Wednesday evening at 6:30.

Channel 8 had its share of trouble on Sunday evening. A lengthy power blackout knocked the station off the air so Inspector Maigret fans were out of luck.

Ironically, the station's late movie fans were also in the dark. Movie scheduled was titled "Pacific Blackout."

'COPTER HUFFS, PUFFS BURNING BOAT ASHORE

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—A U.S. Coast Guard helicopter pilot, skilfully tilting his aircraft from side to side, Monday night used its blades as a fan and blew a burning 18-foot boat away from a gasoline storage tank.

Three men aboard the boat were burned seriously.

The boat had just refuelled at a nearby marina when its engine stopped in midstream of the Wilmington River.

Bob Weeks, Leon Tiano and Tony Zervis, all of Savannah, tried to restart the engine. It exploded, hurling the three men into the river.

The helicopter blew the boat into a marsh, where it burned to the water line and sank.

The pilot picked up the injured men.

Park Plans Cut In Winter Work

Oak Bay works committee Monday night struggled to keep trees on the boulevards and proposed projects in the winter works program, despite necessary increases in the budget estimates.

'Wake Up' To Russ Progress

LONDON (CP)—Lord Thomson, who recently returned from a visit to the Soviet Union, says the Russians are making a more rapid industrial advance than is generally realized in the West.

Writing in his own Sunday Times, the Canadian-born publisher says he is "disturbed that this progress is not sufficiently recognized."

"I was reassured by the feeling that there is no question of a Communist war with the West," Lord Thomson continues, "but I know that the development of Russian productivity makes them a formidable competitor for future world markets."

During his Soviet tour, Lord Thomson interviewed Soviet Premier Khrushchev and travelled with him for several hours. He describes the day as "an incredible and exhausting experience." But Khrushchev showed no sign of weariness.

Revised heating plans at Frank Hobbs Elementary School have brought down a recently submitted construction tender by about $8,000.

School board trustees had two tenders on a new addition to the school, both of them some $10,000 higher than estimated.

The specifications had included a new heating system required by the now sprawling building, and a hot water plant was proposed. This was revised in favor of electric heating for an installation cost about $8,000 less.

Trustees will meet tonight to choose a tender, expected to be in the neighborhood of about $32,000.

JURY RULES $35,000 For Kiss Too Costly

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Just because a whiff of To a Wild Rose perfume fanned Gaylord Richards' ardor to flame, that's no reason he should pay $35,000 for the kiss he stole from the fragrant woman who wore it, says a Superior Court jury.

The jury of seven women and five men deliberated an hour and 15 minutes Friday, then returned a unanimous verdict against Mrs. Catherine Looney, 33, of Malibu.

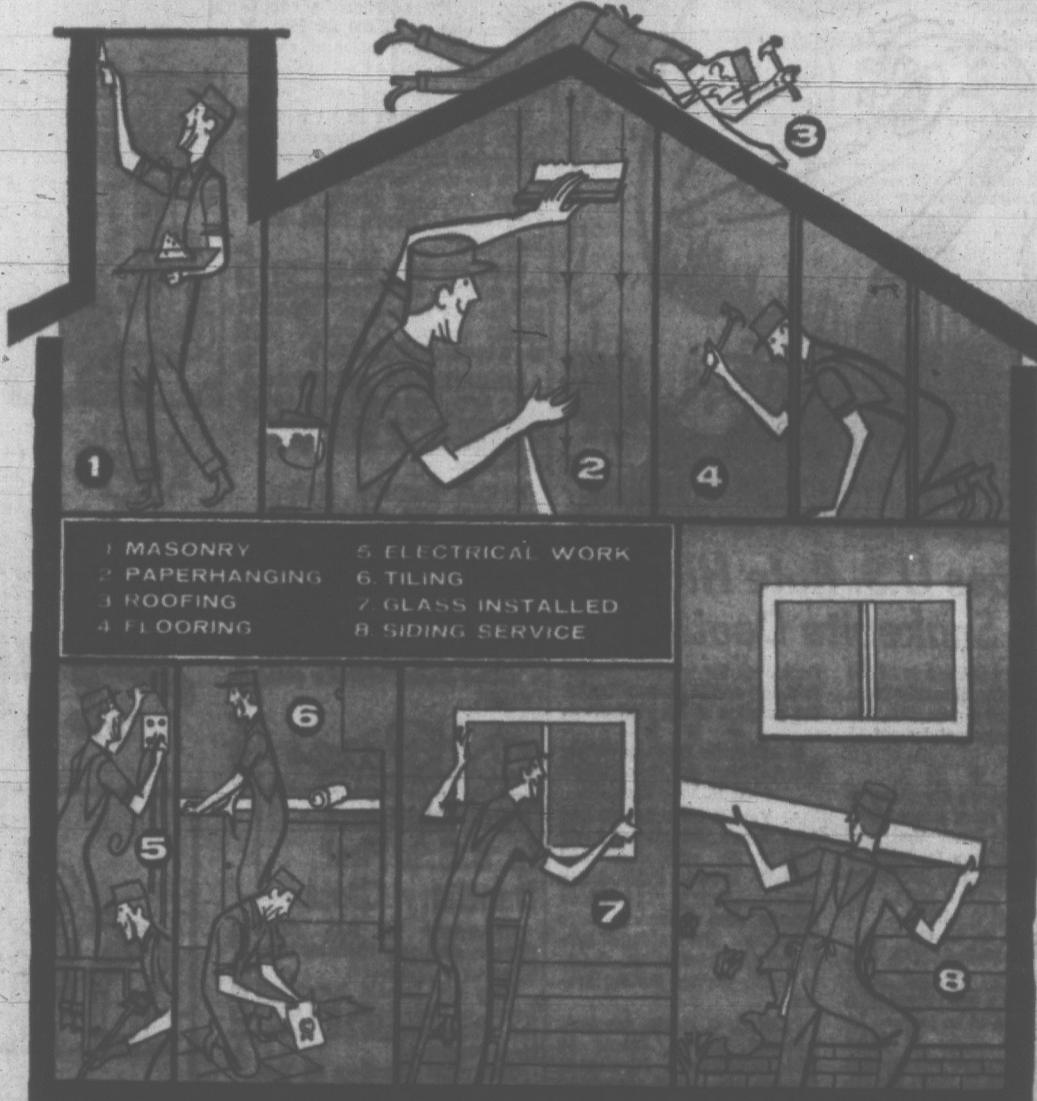

Mrs. Looney, a worker in an aerospace plant, had asked $35,000 damages for physical and mental suffering she claimed she suffered in 1962 when Richards seized her and kissed her.

Richards, 45, now of Rockford, Ill., was a plant guard at the time. He contended that Mrs. Looney had dosed herself with irresistible perfume and that his embrace and kiss were brief and light.

Richards' wife, Bonnie, 35, said she doesn't mind if her husband gives other women a friendly kiss, and that was the kind he gave Mrs. Looney.

After the jury ruling in favor of Richards, Mrs. Richards gave him a kiss. A friendly one. For nothing.

If there's something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books and other interesting prizes? Then ask Andy! Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and one of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Jennifer Buckwheater, 11, Gary, Ind., for her question:

How can we tell the poisonous plants and berries?

Some of the most attractive weeds and wild berries are deadly dangerous to man and beast. Only an expert knows if and when a plant is poisonous, and he is not always certain. Yet every summer many silly non-experts are tempted to taste strange plants and berries and become poisoned.

No sensible person is tempted to dine on mushrooms found growing in the damp and shady woods. These delicacies may turn out to be poisonous toads-tails. Even an expert is not always sure whether they are safe, for some of the mushroom-like fungi are non-poisonous at certain times and poisonous at other times of their lives.

This same expert may tell you that several other plants are poisonous and non-poisonous at certain seasons. If you wish to sample them, you must read all about their life histories and then go forth and study them growing in the wilds. After all this toil, without doubt you will decide to leave them alone, one and all.

Carpets Woods

The little mayapple weed carpets the woods with leafy green foliage and puts forth a small, round blossom of pinkish white. In the fall, the flower is replaced with a pale yellow berry. This strawberry-flavored fruit is safe to eat. But the leaves, root and stems of the mayapple are poisonous. The greenery and dried hay of peppergrass, flax and certain mustards make fine fodder for cattle. But the seeds carry poisons. Sensible people refuse to sample all of these partly-poisonous plants.

One of the most dangerous plants is the tall wild hemlock, topped with flat circles of fluffy flowers. Its frothy leaves have been mistaken for parsley; its roots have been mistaken for wild turnips and its seeds have been mistaken for anise. This enemy of the animal kingdom carries poisons in its stems and roots, seeds and leaves, and it has proved fatal to many people and wild animals who have been tempted to taste it.

It is unwise to nibble or chew on the stalks, leaves or roots of any strange plant. It is too risky to chew strange seeds or berries. The pretty pokeweed bears a spike of glossy blue-black berries, the European bit-

Does U.S. Rate High In Snakebite Deaths?

No. World estimate is 30,000 to 40,000 deaths annually from snakebites. However, U.S. fatalities average only about 15 a year.

CLINIC: Q. We are going to buy a puppy from a local kennel, from a boxer that will have a litter in a few weeks. Can I take the pup home immediately after birth, or should I wait a while?

Mrs. P. C. C., Philadelphia, Pa.

A. Yes, if done before one year of age. The altered male forgets his wanderlust and tends to become more docile and home-loving. The altered female also becomes more tractable. She no longer generates the tremendous desire to roam during mating season.

CLINIC: Q. Exactly what is leptospirosis? You mentioned in a recent column that it is an infectious disease which afflicts dogs and many other species of animals. I have never heard of it.

W.M.A., Riverside, Calif.

A. It's an infectious disease caused by a number of species of the leptospira micro-organism. It is usually an acute infection of the urinary system (kidney) and is transmitted by the passage of infected urine.

CLINIC: Q. Does neutering a cat change the personality?

T. R. T., Moline, Ill.

A. Yes, if done before one year of age. The altered male forgets his wanderlust and tends to become more docile and home-loving. The altered female also becomes more tractable. She no longer generates the tremendous desire to roam during mating season.

CLINIC: Q. Bravo, our five-year-old cocker, seems to have itching ears. He tries to scratch them as if something inside is tickling him. What can I do for him? Is there a home remedy I can try? We live far out in the country, and a visit to the veterinarian is a major problem.

MRS. R. S. J. BARRIE, Ont.

A. Wait for at least eight weeks, to give the puppy time to adjust and to be weaned by his mother. Also, at eight weeks of age, you will be in a better position to judge the appearance, health and condition of your puppy.

one of those badges that reads "Goldwater For Halloween."

The Yacht Set is very important in the political campaign, just as the Perle Mesta Set is. The B.W. and I were thrilled to get invited to a Democratic Party party on the 118-foot yacht Blue Horizon II, owned by O. Roy Chalk, the Washington tycoon.

A gentleman wearing red, white and blue trousers made by the late JFK's tailor, H. Harris of New York, spilled champagne on my trousers and on me.

"That champagne's a very good year," he said. "It'll be excellent for your trousers."

The beautiful Blue Horizon II was anchored, but, the conversation was little dizzy, some of it probably my fault.

Iona Massey, the great blonde in movie beauty, was standing against the rail with her husband Donald Dawson, looking gorgeous. I went over to her and said, "You look gorgeous."

Coming: 'The Most Colossal Catastrophe in History'

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

CHICAGO (AP) — A world famine striking "hundreds of millions or even billions of human beings" is near, a scientist-economist warned today.

"It will be the most colossal catastrophe in history," declared Dr. Raymond Ewell, vice-president for research, State University of New York at Buffalo.

Such a famine in Asia, Africa and South America by the 1970s and later seems almost inevitable as expanding population outstrips food production, he told the American Chemical Society.

Dr. Ewell said the only immediate step open to avert it is for the United States and Europe to make outright gifts of millions of tons of fertilizers to increase local food yields.

The deadline even for succeeding this way is only a few years away, he said.

Birth control is the ultimate

answer, Dr. Ewell said, but its effects on the food-population problem will be slow. Yet unless birth control is applied also, the famine would still come regardless of boosts in food production.

Historians of the future may remark on whether it was more important to have worked towards putting a man on the moon during the 1960s, or to have worked towards averting the world famine of the 1970s, he said.

Population in these areas will increase by about 1,000,000,000 persons in 20 years, but food

output has not been increasing, he said.

Stable governments could not exist under such famines, he said. People would be too weak to work, be affected mentally, yet modern medicine would keep many starving people from dying of diseases as happened among past famines involving "only" about 10,000,000 people.

There is still time for a crash program that might avert the situation—by supplying fertilizers" that could boost yields of rice, wheat, corn and other crops by 50 to 100 per cent more, he said.

The rich, industrialized nations will have to give either fertilizer (such as nitrogen and phosphorus) or fertilizer production plants to the poor countries for the simple reason that they don't have any money."

Plants to produce the millions of tons of needed fertilizer would cost about $3,000,000,000—"about a tenth the cost of putting a man on the moon," Dr. Ewell said.

He suggested an international agency might be formed to direct the supply of fertilizer, and experts to teach its use. Introducing better varieties of seeds, more irrigation, more pesticides are also needed, but their effect is slower, he said.

Dr. Ewell said birth rates of about two or nearly three per cent of population per year in those countries must be reduced to about one per cent if ultimate disaster is to be avoided.

INDIA ASKS U.S., U.K. TO DIVERT GRAIN SHIPS

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — India is urgently appealing to the United States and Britain for grain to ease a food shortage following a delay in foreign imports and damage to home crops, it was reported today.

An Indian food ministry spokesman said the government had made direct appeals to London and Washington for the diversion to Indian ports of ships carrying Australian wheat to Britain and United States to Pakistan.

Pearson Makes Unity Plea As Premiers' Talks Begin

'Mike Must Back Down' Tory Stand

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA — Negotiations to reach a compromise solution to the flag filibuster will get nowhere with the Progressive Conservatives until Prime Minister Pearson backs down and withdraws the flag or sends it to a committee with no time limit.

Conservative house leader Gordon Churchill made this clear in an interview today after the various house leaders held a meeting Monday. Four of the five party house leaders met for 40 minutes to try and work out some compromise. Social Credit was not represented.

Stanley Knowles, New Democratic house leader, said today it was still his view that if such meetings were continued that the house leaders might reach a compromise. However he stressed that in a compromise both sides had to "give a little."

He added, "In the bargaining sessions we have had so far there appears to be no willingness on the part of the Progressive Conservatives to budge an inch. This is unlike most bargaining sessions where each side is prepared to give a bit."

Mr. Churchill said that the Conservatives are convinced that the "government has miscalculated badly in this flag question. It has miscalculated the feelings of the people across the country and it has miscalculated in its handling of this matter in Parliament."

SOFTENING UP?

The Tory house leader said that in continuing to debate the flag in the house the official opposition was "softening up the Liberals."

Mr. Churchill said, "We will get nowhere so long as the present government insists that the maple leaf flag be adopted. The reports we are getting each week now indicate that the three-maple leaf flag is not nearly as acceptable to the people of Canada as it appeared to be three months ago."

Even many of those people who are not insistent on retaining the Red Ensign are not favorable to the adoption of the three-maple leaf flag."

The Conservative house leader said, the way out of the impasse for the government was to withdraw the maple leaf flag or send the flag question to a committee of parliament, but he insisted there must be no time limit on the meetings of that committee to try and arrive at an acceptable flag design.

No. 1 Goal For Canada

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson today called on Canadians for "political realism, a passion for justice and a gift for compromise."

He said these qualities will be needed if Canada's people are going to remove the stains imposed by constitutional, racial and regional tensions.

Mr. Pearson spoke at a ceremonial federal-provincial conference marking the 100th anniversary of the 1864 Charlottetown meeting that led to Confederation three years later.

National unity must be the No. 1 goal, the prime minister said. It must take precedence over all other goals—economic, social or cultural.

"This does not mean and cannot mean uniformity. It does mean Canadian identity, with the symbols and even more the spirit and the pride to foster such identity."

"It does not mean subordination in any way of provincial rights, nor the alienation of provincial authority. It does mean a government at the centre strong enough to serve Canada as a whole."

Mr. Pearson said Canada's present problems are seized upon by the cynics and the faint-hearted to belittle the nation's achievements. Canadians should counteract such defeatism.

"We should spend more time rejoicing in our achievements; less in moaning about our difficulties."

Social unrest, economic pressures and federal-provincial differences have tested every generation of Canadians. No generation had failed to meet the test; nor would the Canadians of today.

Even on the anniversary of the meeting that shaped Canada's birth, he said, her leaders and people should not dwell on the past, or even on the present. "We plan for the future, and it is the future on which we have to agree."

"We cannot turn back the clock. We cannot by our wish or our command restore to our problems the simple shapes, the neat black and white alternatives of simpler times."

Islanders Away To Flying Start

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — With a three-year start on the rest of Canada, Prince Edward Island today threw itself headlong into celebrating Canada's centenary.

Unlike other provinces, which will have their birthday flings in 1967, this is the centenary of the island's historic role in the making of Canada—the day in 1864 the fathers of Confederation came ashore to begin moulding the provinces into a nation.

They were doing it again today—actors, not politicians this time—to show a delighted island population and thousands of visitors just how Charlottetown earned its title as "the cradle of Confederation."

Among the spectators were Prime Minister Pearson and the 10 provincial premiers.

Mr. Pearson and the premiers will try Wednesday to arrive at an acceptable formula that will allow the constitution to be amended in Ottawa without reference to Westminster.

There were indications the 11 leaders would have little difficulty achieving their goal.

The chances of success are "100 per cent," said Premier Bennett of British Columbia.

Premier Manning of Alberta was "hopeful."

New Type Confederation' Wanted by French Canada

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)

Premier Lesage said today Quebecers are not asking for special treatment when they call for a new constitution better able to serve their aspirations.

"We wish only that Quebec and all of French Canada will be able to take the place which is its due and fully play the role it believes to be its own in a Confederation of a new type," Premier Lesage said.

Despite some appearances, he said Quebec is not acting to undermine that which exists in Canada.

"We wish to build, not to destroy," he said.

Canada should rejoice at the economic and social progress made since the establishment of Confederation in 1867, a structure he said has allowed Canada to face the United States and build "an autonomous, human community."

We have to continue our forward march, but it must be recognized that we live at a time in our history when this advance particularly implies a reciprocal will for understanding on the part of others."

He said Quebec looks at the constitution as a legal framework permitting the expansion of the various groups living in the country.

This is why Quebec hopes the constitution of the future, evolving and improving, will take more account of the legitimate aspirations of the founding groups of the Canadian Confederation."

Year's A-Power For Spaceship

GENEVA (AP) — The United States is developing a compact atomic reactor designed to power a space ship for more than a year and has scheduled the first space flight of a reactor power plant next year, it was reported here today.

The third International Conference on the Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy also was told nuclear explosives will soon be used for civil engineering projects such as earth moving and the recovery of minerals and petroleum which would otherwise not be economically recoverable.

Dr. Robert H. Pidd, of the General Dynamics Corp., San Diego, Calif., said that in one test of a compact reactor a lifetime of almost one year was achieved.

He added that there seems to be no doubt that this can be extended to periods of longer than a year. Pidd said there has been steady improvement of the reactor, which converts fission heat into electricity.

Dr. Gerald W. Johnson and Dr. Gary H. Higgins of the University of California's Lawrence Radiation Laboratory told the conference that use of nuclear explosives in earth moving and other projects will be feasible "with several more years of experimentation."

They reported major advances have been made in reducing the amount of radioactivity released from the nuclear explosions.

SHINGLE MILL GETS BLAME FOR FLY ASH

Blame for recent rise in flyash fallout was centred on McCarter's Shingle Mills today and City Hall officials indicated a prosecution may be launched.

Smoke committee chairman Ad. Geoffrey Edgerton this morning told public works committee that "a certain firm is breaking the (smoke control) bylaw and is not cooperating with the city's inspector."

He said the city engineer's department is reviewing the situation and may lay a charge against the firm if the situation is not improved quickly.

Other aldermen indicated they were angered with the situation and Mayor R. B. Wilson said:

"I see no reason why the name of the firm should not be made public. It's McCarter's isn't it?"

Leo Hager and his far-roaming kayak in the Inner Harbor.

CROSSING STRAIT WAS 'A BREEZE'

Paddles His Own Kayak

By LESLIE MILLIN

A lean, salt-stained and independent young man paddled a kayak into the Inner Harbor on Monday night.

He moored it, lay down in the cockpit to sleep—and awoke this morning to find himself something of a celebrity.

A yachtswoman from a neighboring vessel brought a cup of coffee over to the paddled figure in the kayak.

She found that 21-year-old Leo Hager had paddled the 12-foot craft from his Friday Harbor home to Port Angeles and then to Victoria.

FOR FUN

Leo sat on the wharf this morning, his battered bare feet dangling over the kayak, and told a small crowd he made the trip "for fun."

His boat is a white fibreglass rig, with a home-made mast and rag-canvas sails.

"Kayak cost me $150 and this good paddle cost me $12," he said.

The mast and sails didn't cost anything.

"I found the canvas—even found the brass screws I needed."

SEEKING WORK

Leo, who planned to ship out before noon today, had not yet cleared customs.

Lying around him on the dock were some of the kayak's contents—a rifle, hunting knife, sleeping bags, foul weather gear and plastic cannister of fresh water.

Leo went from Friday Harbor to Port Angeles looking for work.

"Thought I might do some coon hunting or fox hunting—that's what the rifle's for," he said.

There wasn't too much doing there, so he rigged the mast and sails to the kayak year's.

$6,000 IN PRIZES AT 'OLDIMER' FAIR

Busiest person on Vancouver Island this week is Mrs. E. V. (Pat) Woods, permanent secretary-treasurer of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society.

Her task is to record more than 3,000 entries, the largest in years, and to keep track of expenditures for the three-day 96th annual Saanich fair which opens Saturday.

Over the Labor Day weekend, when the oldest fair in western Canada is in full swing, her job will be to record the names of hundreds of exhibitors who have won prizes in the various classes and sections of the exhibition.

Prize winners will receive trophies and money totalling more than $6,000.

Mrs. Woods will also be available at the society's office in the basement of the main agricultural hall to answer inquiries.

She will be at her desk throughout the day and evening.

"We haven't yet counted the number of entries in this year's exhibition," said Mrs. Woods, "but we do know they number more than 3,000, more than last year's."

TOPICS of the DAY

A dinner meeting of the Tourist Industry Group has been postponed from tonight until next Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Dominion Room of the Dominion Hotel.

Laser welding techniques will be discussed by W. N. Platte at a meeting of the American Society for Metals next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Dockyard Officers' Club.

Mr. Platte is an engineer at the Westinghouse Research and Development Centre, Pittsburgh, and has been connected with research into metals during the past 22 years.

A field trip to Vancouver rolling mills is scheduled for Sept. 25 for society members, and non-members if space is available.

The Victoria chapter is also offering a 15-lecture course on Elements of Metallurgy, which will begin Oct. 6 at Oak Bay High School. Instructor will be engineer B. F. Peters.

Greater Victoria school trustees Monday accepted a tender of $32,013 for construction of a two-month addition to Frank Hobbs Elementary School. It was submitted by H. E. Fowler and Sons Ltd.

Original estimate for the work was $31,000 and two bids submitted were both over $40,000. Revised specifications for certain building materials and a heating unit brought the low bid down.

The Rocking Squares Club will open the square dance season on Vancouver Island in Colwood community hall, Sept. 9 at 8 p.m. Caller for the dance will be Fred Willing.

CARELESS DRIVERS

In city court today: William R. Tapp, 1600 Derby, collision Yates and Douglas Aug. 7, $45.

Wilton Mawdsley, 1023 Davie, speeding and near collision on Quadra Aug. 18, $50.

S. W. Shannon, HMCS Fraser, hit power pole Slumco St., Aug. 15, $50.

J. G. Edmondson, 2658 Belmont, rear-end collision Bay and Douglas Aug. 14, $40.

Phone $20 Canadian bills are in circulation and RCMP have warned merchants to be on the lookout for them.

One was found recently in Alberni and there have been several reports of them in Vancouver. The spurious bills can be recognized by weak coloring and shading on the reverse side.

Police said attempts may be made to pass large numbers of the bills off at the Labor Day weekend or at the races which are coming here soon.

Esquimalt Golden Age Club will meet Sept. 9 at 2 p.m. in Esquimalt Jubilee Hall.

Members of Parkdale Senior Citizens' Centre will celebrate its fifth anniversary at the centre, Thursday at 2 p.m.

A four-year-old boy received a head cut when he was hit by a car at Doncaster and Hillside shortly before 8 p.m. Monday.

City police said Wade Stanfield, 1555 Westall, ran out into the path of a car driven by Clifford Watt, 2620 Avebury.

The boy was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital and discharged after receiving head stitches.

Naturalist Freeman King and Saanich councillor Gregory Cook will speak at the Community Planning Association regional meeting, Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Royal Oak Women's Institute Hall. This will be the fourth in a series of meetings called to make ratepayers aware of land use in different areas.

3 Admit Beating, Robbing Fourth Suspect Given Freedom

Three young men have now pleaded guilty to beating and robbing a 65-year-old storekeeper last Friday night.

A fourth person who originally pleaded not guilty has had the charge against him withdrawn.

The three will appear in court together Wednesday for the facts of the case to be heard are John T. Shaw, 20, of 905 Parklands, John Cottam, 21, of 1007 McCaskill, and Robert McLean, 60, Craigflower.

Oliver Cottam, 19, of 1007 McCaskill, was originally charged along with the other three. But in court this morning Crown Prosecutor Peter Birkett withdrew the charge.

INSUFFICIENT EVIDENCE

Mr. Birkett said there was "an insufficient amount of evidence" for the Crown to proceed. Cottam was immediately released from custody.

The charges of robbery with violence arose after Gustav Martin was robbed in his store at 785 Humboldt. He was lured to the rear of the store where he was assaulted. Meanwhile the cash register was robbed of $50.

The arrests were made after the car used by the robbers for their getaway crashed into a tree only four blocks from the scene of the crime.

A service club today proposed municipal boulevard trees be planted and marked in honor of newborn babies—for a price.

Victoria Kiwanis Club made the suggestion and it was referred by city works committee to city manager Dennis Young for study.

Here's how it would work, club representative Dr. C. H. Borsman told the committee:

The parent or grandparent of a newborn baby could pay a fixed sum—possibly $20 or $25—to the club and it would arrange for planting of a boulevard tree and installation of a small metal marker in the adjoining sidewalk or a concrete block identifying the child.

MEET EXPENSE

Mr. Borsman said the fee would pay the municipality's expense in installing the tree—or at least a large part of it—the costs of promoting the venture and leave a small surplus over for the club's charities.

The municipality has the "unwritten right" to appoint a man who is in fact an officer of the municipality and not a member of the fire department, he said.

The arbitration is the result of a dispute between the union and Saanich over the appointment of Chief Joseph Sutherland to replace retiring chief Joseph Law.

Union officials protested the appointment at the time, saying it infringed the spirit of the collective agreement, which provides for promotion to officer rank on the basis of seniority and experience.

Argument by Mr. Patterson was winding up at noon, and the hearing was expected to run much of the day.

Luxton 4-H Wins Garden Display

Greater Victoria's reputation of being the most "garden-conscious" city in North America was upheld by members of the Luxton Garden 4-H Club at the Pacific National Exhibition.

The club won first prize for having the best garden display in provincial 4-H competitions.

The young people scored the highest points for the way they displayed their vegetables and arranged their flowers—an art which most Victoria gardeners excel in.

GAS STOVE BLAST BURNS CAMPER, 71

A 71-year-old man suffered extensive burns when an accumulation of propane gas exploded as he lit the cooker in his camper at Sooke this morning.

Matt Ball, 3168 Harriet, was blown eight feet by the force of the explosion and the blast buckled the roof of the camper and blew its door off.

He was rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital by West Coast Ambulance. He is described as being in fairly comfortable condition with first and second degree burns to his legs, thigh, arms and part of his face.

Mr. Ball was alone in his camper at Whiffin Spit when the accident occurred. Another camper parked beside him heard the explosion and drove Mr. Ball to the RCMP detachment.

Dull Summer A Record At Least

June, July and August were the cloudiest on record in Victoria, and it appears September may not be any different.

Weather forecast for Wednesday is cloudiness in the night and morning with sunshine during the afternoon.

Below normal temperatures are expected with a range of 45 to 50 degrees in the night and 65 to 70 in the day. Winds will be essentially light with occasional fog patches over the water at night and early morning.

Outlook for Thursday is promising, said William Mackie.

An official report from the weather office showed there were only 700.5 hours of sunshine during June, July and August, making it the dullest summer on record.

The summer of 1954, with a total of 704.2 hours of sunshine, now takes second place, and the summer of 1916 is third with 779.1 hours.

In all it has been a dull year with the first eight months falling 241.5 hours short of the normal amount of sunshine.

During the month of August Victoria had more than twice the normal amount of rainfall with 10.4 inches compared with the normal of 7.1.

Mean temperature for the month was 59.4, while the normal is 60.1. Minimum temperature was 50.2 recorded on Aug. 14.

ROADS NARROW

"The roads in the area are too narrow to take the traffic already on them, and will be completely inadequate for added commercial vehicles," said R. L. Flint, 3327 Whittier.

"The rezoning would also devalue our properties."

Approval was given an application by Michael Williams for rezoning the corner of Douglas and Duplin for pet parlour use.

Rezoning of the corner of Tolmie and Glasgow for medium density apartment use was recommended, subject to the removal of a house on the lot and provision of guest parking.

Land in the Blair Avenue sewer lateral extension area was recommended for rezoning from farming and residential to residential use only.

ART CLASSES START SEPT. 29

Both the children's and adult art classes at the Victoria Art Gallery will begin the week of Sept. 29 and continue for a 10-week period.

Four different classes for ages four to six will be held mornings and afternoons on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

School-age groups will meet in various late-afternoon sessions, and Saturday morning classes will be held for ages 10 to 12 and advanced students up to 17.

Venus and Mars are currently rising in the east almost simultaneously about three hours before sun-up.

City Shipyard Strike Averted

Office Staff Agreement Worked Out

A basis of agreement has been worked out between office employees and management of Yarrows, ending threat of another strike at the shipyard.

Employees voted 35-9 for a strike in a government-sponsored ballot Monday afternoon.

But government conciliation officer W. T. McLaughlin told the Times today a memorandum of understanding for a three-year agreement has been reached since then.

$25 HIKE

It calls for an across-the-board increase of $25 a month, with employees in the two biggest categories—what the union considers the two lowest rungs of journeymen—getting an additional $12 a month.

Effective Jan. 1, 1965, all employees would get an additional $16 a month, with a $15 per month increase effective Oct. 15, 1965.

Yarrows and the union would agree to establish a standing committee to review questions of salary ranges.

After losing two world wars, the Germans have learned their lesson and now sincerely want a real peace, West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard declared today in Bonn.

"A general and sincere world peace is the goal for which we are willing to make sacrifices," Erhard said in speech to the nation on the 25th anniversary of the outbreak of the Second World War.

Although historians now agree that no one government can bear all the blame for the First World War, Erhard said, "there is complete agreement that Hitler bears the main guilt for the Second World War."

In Berlin, Mayor Willy Brandt today placed a wreath at the British cemetery in ceremonies marking the 25th anniversary of the outbreak of the war.

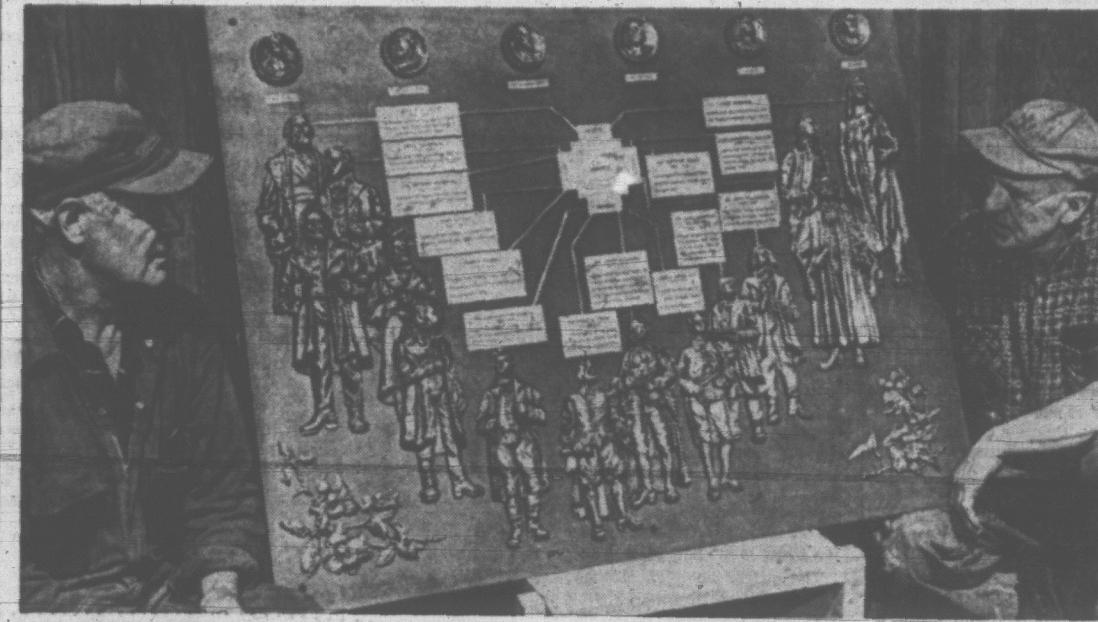

Braendt, accompanied by high-ranking British officials, observed a minute's silence for the 3,700 British soldiers and airmen buried here before driving on to the U.S. and French headquarters for further ceremonies.

The date of the anniversary observed in the former capital of Adolf Hitler's Germany and elsewhere around Europe was marked on both sides of the Communist border wall.

One Province Suggested For Maritimes

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (UPI) — New Brunswick Premier Louis Robichaud today suggested the Atlantic provinces consider uniting to form a single Canadian province.

Speaking at the premiers' gathering in Confederation Chamber, Robichaud told the conference: "Perhaps Premiers (Robert) Stanfield, (Joseph) Smallwood and (Walter) Shaw and I may get together today, and on this centenary of that first meeting in Charlottetown, decide to reduce the number of Canadian provinces from 10 to seven."

"Should that occur," he said, "the focal point of progress and activity in the nation would unquestionably and rapidly take a marked shift to the east."

PIECEMEAL

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland added that any union would probably have to take place upon a piecemeal basis—with the islands of Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island uniting first, then acquiring Cape Breton, and then joining with the mainland of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

If political seniority were to govern the premiership of a united province, he suggested, Premier Walter Shaw would preside first, then Smallwood, then Stanfield, and "perhaps in 30 or 40 years" Premier Robichaud.

An aide said Robichaud's proposal was a "feeler" thrown out upon the premise that the meeting 100 years ago was designed to consider a maritime union only and that the delegates "were not resolute in their purpose."

SHINGLE MILL GETS BLAME FOR FLY ASH

Blame for a recent rise in flyash fallout was centered on McCarter's Shingle Mill today and City Hall officials indicated a prosecution may be undertaken.

Smoke committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgerton this morning told public works committee that "a certain firm is breaking the (smoke control) bylaw and is not cooperating with the city's inspector."

He said that the city engineer's department is reviewing the situation and may lay a charge against the firm if the situation is not improved quickly.

Other aldermen indicated they were angered with the situation and Mayor E. H. Wilson said:

"I see no reason why the name of the firm should not be made public. It's McCarter's isn't it?"

Mission Fails to Rescue Nuns

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — An emergency mission to fly 15 Canadian Catholic nuns out of rebel-infested territory so far has been unsuccessful, the Canadian embassy reported today.

The nuns, at a post about 625 airline miles from here on the Congo River, sent out an urgent appeal for their rescue. Fears for the nuns heightened because of past reports of burning, looting, raping and murder by Congolese rebels in other areas. In most instances, however, whites have not been molested.

Year's A-Power For Spaceship

GENEVA (AP)—The United States is developing a compact atomic reactor designed to power a spaceship for more than a year and has scheduled the first space flight of a reactor power plant next year, it was reported here today.

The third International Conference on the Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy also was told nuclear explosives will soon be used for civil engineering projects such as earth moving and the recovery of minerals and petroleum which would otherwise not be economically recoverable.

They reported major advances have been made in reducing the amount of radioactivity released from the nuclear explosions.

INDIA ASKS U.S., U.K. TO DIVERT GRAIN SHIPS

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — India is urgently appealing to the United States and Britain for grain to ease a food shortage following a delay in foreign imports and damage to home crops, it was reported today.

An Indian food ministry spokesman said the government had made direct appeals to London and Washington for the diversion to Indian ports of ships carrying Australian wheat to Britain and United States wheat to Pakistan.

SCIENTIST WARNS

World Famine Few Years Away

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

CHICAGO (AP) — A world famine striking "hundreds of millions or even billions of human beings" is near, a scientist-economist warned today.

"It will be the most colossal catastrophe in history," declared Dr. Raymond Ewell, vice-president for research, State University of New York at Buffalo.

Such a famine in Asia, Africa and South America by the 1970s and later seems almost inevitable as expanding population outstrips food production, he told the American Chemical Society.

Dr. Ewell said the only immediate step open to avert it is for the United States and Europe to make outright gifts of millions of tons of fertilizers to increase local food yields.

The deadline even for succeeding this way is only a few years away, he said.

ULTIMATE ANSWER

Birth control is the ultimate answer, Dr. Ewell said, but its effects on the food-population problem will be slow. Yet unless birth control is applied also, the famine would still come regardless of boosts in food production.

"Historians of the future may remark on whether it was more important to have worked towards putting a man on the moon during the 1960s, or to have worked towards averting the world famine of the 1970s," he said.

By present trends, "it seems likely that the famine will reach serious proportions in India, Pakistan and China in the early 1970s, followed by Indonesia, Iran, Turkey, Egypt and several other countries within a few years, and then followed by most of the other countries of Asia, Africa and Latin America by 1980," Dr. Ewell predicted.

Population in these areas will increase by about 1,000,000,000 persons in 20 years, but food output has not been increasing, he said.

Stable governments could not exist under such famines, he said. People would be too weak to work, be affected mentally, yet modern medicine would keep many starving people from dying of diseases as happened.

Huge Titan Fails Its Third Stage

CAPE KENNEDY (AP) — The Titan 3A military space rocket blasted off on its maiden test flight today but failed to propel its third stage into orbit as a flying launch platform.

Tracing stations lost radio contact with the rocket 13 minutes after it was launched.

Nearly two hours later, the air force announced that the third stage had failed to achieve an intended orbit.

Nevertheless, an official reported that 95 per cent of the test objectives were achieved on this initial flight for a rocket which is being developed to help give the United States military superiority in space.

The 124-foot-tall rocket blasted away from Cape Kennedy at 11 a.m. Its goal was to launch its third stage into orbit as a flying launch platform. The platform, in turn, was to kick loose a dummy satellite into separate orbits.

Within minutes, the second and third stages fired right on schedule. But, as the rocket zipped 100 miles over a tracking station in the West Indies island of Antigua, all radio contact was lost with the vehicle.

At CRUCIAL MOMENT

The radio blackout occurred just a few seconds before the third stage was to have burned out and inserted itself into orbit.

"We just don't know what happened," Brig. Gen. Joseph S. Blynn, Titan 3A program manager, told a press conference later.

Blynn said the rocket had met 95 per cent of its test goals on this first flight.

The general said that the first and second stages recorded 100 per cent successes, and that the third stage, with a brand-new rocket engine being flown for the first time, had burned nearly its full time of 419 seconds.

Wish to Build Not to Destroy'

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Confederation in 1867, a structure he said, has allowed Canada to face the United States and build an autonomous, human community.

We have to continue our forward march, but it must be recognized that we live at a time in our history when this advance particularly implies a reciprocal will for understanding on the part of others," Premier Lesage said.

"We wish only that Quebec and all of French Canada will be able to take the place which it deserves in the Canadian state," he said. "We are not asking for special treatment when they call for a new constitution better able to serve their aspirations."

Despite some appearances, he said Quebec is not acting to undermine that which exists in Canada.

"We wish to build, not to destroy," he said.

Canada should rejoice at the economic and social progress made since the establishment of the Canadian Confederation."
